

Dear Harold,

Nov. 6, 1989

I'm sorry to hear about your recent medical problems. I do hope your visit to Johns Hopkins goes well and that your condition is not as serious as you suspect it might be. You will be in our thoughts.

I have been on the phone with the former bookstore director and the Wofford College business office. You should receive something from the business office about the time this letter arrives. Apparently no one has a copy of the original invoice. The business office will request a copy of the invoice and then the check should be forthcoming. (I gave them the note that Lil sent, but they said that was insufficient). I hope this will settle this matter.

Please do not worry about arranging to have those files copied at the present time. We can work things out in the near future. I would not have time right now to even begin to look at them given my classroom responsibilities. Thanks so much for the efforts you have made so far.

Last week Sheehan made his appearance here, and he gave an outstanding talk. I sat with the ROTC people from our college and despite some of the critical things he said, they stood with the rest of the audience to give him a standing ovation. Its too bad people like him could not be more sensitive to the lies and deception involved in the JFK and Martin Luther King cases.

I can't remember where you wrote or said this, but you noted once that John Kennedy said that he had many challenges to meet and things to do before he laid to rest. That has been an inspiration to me and I trust a continuing source of strength to you.

With Best Wishes,
