

12/18/96

Dear both,

That beautiful frozen turkey was still frozen solid when it got here this morning. We were away getting some medicines and doing some shopping with the prediction of 3-6 inches of snow tomorrow and it was on the step waiting for us.

I'm particularly glad about the honest packaging. It means I'll get just a nibble from time to time. 500 mg of salt per serving requires that I take no more than a taste at any one time.

I learned about salt and about reading labels from the congestive heart failure and do I read labels now!!!

It is beautiful, it is thoughtful and we'll enjoy it much.
May thanks.

Yesterday was taken up with an interview for a TV show for next year. The day before with getting ready for it. Dave knows more about those people than I do. I know nothing at all about them. The guy seemed pretty good. Jerry also has that opinion. He interviewed Jerry, too.

Chicago outfit, initials MPT. Never heard of them but Dave spoke well of this man.

I was just beginning to come down with something. I think you'll not recognize my voice. Lil made an extra pot of coffee so they kept supplying me with what was both wet and warm and that helped.

Probably just a cold, first one in so many years I can't remember the last one.
Best to you all and may you all have a fine holiday and a fine year ahead.

Hardy