Your letter has been forwarded from our old address.

I have printed not three but four books, list enclosed. One deals with what was surpressed and misropresented about the New Orleans end, with Oswald and his associates there and some of the Cubens who figured in it, etc. If you are making a deep study of the entire associates the require them. The second book is the first to report what is subcressed in the Archives, and with that carries forward some of the reveletions of WHITEWATH, which was the first book on the Report. The third deals with the subcression and misropresentation of the photographic evidence. It has about 150 pages of reproduction of suppressed documents on this and related subjects.

To enswer your irst cuestion, as the second book proves, the first shot had been fired by Frame 202. I so not quite agree with the formulation of your question. The arror of the Report is not to make the first shot as lets as possible but to make it at a time them it could be alleged it was possible for as wald to have first it. Before Frame 210 that was not possible, according to their inecturate, contrived reconstruction.

My feeling is that, had there been a trial, the paraffin test would have been accepted as competent proof Oswald had not fired a Fifle. It is proof of just this.

My knowledge of the autorsy has advanced much since WHITE ACH, though everything in it is accurate. I have written but have not been able to print two of three planned books on it. The autorsy doctors, saids from their competence or incompetence, were not free to conduct a proper and complete autorsy and theu did not. The parjured themselves tefore the Commission. I charge this in the new, unprinted books. And I prove it. If you question relates to who made the nandwritten changes in the draft of the autorsy, except for one, they were made by Dr. Humes on the late morning and early afternoof of 11/24/63. Except for one that way made without any change in the Holograph. If the questions asks who ordered changes, I convet give you a name. If you meen why were the changes made, my belief is to point more to Dawald as the lone assassin.

Because you are a young man going to much trouble to write a good thosis, and because you are a young citizen apparently deeply concerned about the integrity of his society as well as what happened to his President, I speak to you as frontly as I otherwise would not. Of the book you cite, I encourage youxto ignore all but two as sources, Sylvia Meagher's (which is a magnificent job) and MMITEWASH. The other are much more erroneous than you would be able to understand.

Without knowing the length of your thesis I cannot make many suggestions.

Tou do not give its planned title. But if you have not yet selected the subject, I suggest you might consider the Report as a measure of the integrity of government.

Sincerely, Herold Weisberg

Dear Mr. Weisberg:

I'm a High School Sophmore who, in March of this year, started my own investigation into the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

During this period I have read: Accessories After the Fact, Six Seconds In Dallas, Inquest, The Oswald Affair, Who Killed Kennedy?, A Citizen's Decent, The Second Oswald, New York Times Edition of the Warren Report, The Death of a President, and I've just finished your very revealing volume, Whitewash: The Report of the Warren Report.

I have chosen the assassintion of President Kennedy (and the subsequent events involving Oswald) for my American History thesis. I've deceided to by pass the Warren Report and draw my own conclusion from the evidence presented in books such as Sylvia Meagher's, Joshia Thompson's, Edward Jay Epstien's, and your's.

I do have some questions to ask you about the events in Dallas.

1. Sylvia Meagher backs up your veiw of a shot as early as frame 207, do you feel that the Warren Report just said this to make Kennedy's nonfatal shot as late as possible?

2. What is your feeling towords the paraffin tests?

3. Do you feel it was the autopsy doctors or the members of the Warren Commission staff, who "edited" the autopsy report?

4. What are the main subjects are involved in your other two books?

I'm definetly open for suggestions as to how to write my thesis.

Thank you for your time and answers.

Yours truely,

Mark Yours
