Dear Henry,

Thanks for your note of the 25th and the enclosed HAGOTH puffery from Flightime, of Allegheny Airlines.

There has not been any response to my letter, either.

I think there will be none.

If they had not learned earlier I suspect that from my letter they knew they were lost on McDonald.

I'm going to turn this over to my lawyer, Jim Lesar.

He knows about it from before.

I think that when he can he'll file for me.

That makes the intent to defraud an important issue. It is clear in this puffing by Allegheny, I think.

Many thanks.

By the way, in my view Mark Lane and Dick Gregory together and almost as much Mark Lane alone have become major disinformation operations.

If you see anything in the conservative journals you read I'd appreciate copies. If only for record, for the future.

Best regards,

HENRY P. DURKIN

Dear Harold:

Still no word from Hagoth on my letter of many months ago asking for details on their reward offer. Meantime, though, thought you might be interested in the enclosed piece from Allegheny Airlines magazine for October.

Best,

NEW TECHNOLOGY

STAR WARS REVISITED

STAR WARS and STAR TREK gadgetry surpassed by new space program technology?

The spectacular success of the movie STAR WARS, with its anti-gravity cars and laser swords, once again proves that you separate the men from the boys by the size of their toys. How about Spock's tri-corder on STAR TREK? It could tell what you were made of, where you were, whether or not you were hostile, and what you were sick with. Neat, right? Frank Herbert gave his fantasies human form in DUNE, one of the greatest science fiction novels every written. Witches, called Truth-sayers, could listen to your testimony and tell whether or not you were really telling the truth.

If you think all this is neat, and if you can afford $1500, boy does The HAGOTH Corporation have something for you.

They haven't quite mastered that laser sword, but they have taken the intellect of the Truth-sayer witches and the portability of Spock's tri-corder and come up with the HAGOTH.

The HAGOTH is an electronic box the size of a hand-held calculator. With it you can accurately determine from a person's voice, whether or not he is telling the truth. The HAGOTH can be connected to the telephone, a tape recorder, a television set, or used with a microphone; and we guarantee it works. Eight green lights and eight red lights give an instantaneous indication.

The HAGOTH Corporation has been in business a year-and-a-half. They've sold hundreds of HAGOTHS with an unconditional money-back guarantee, and in that first year they spent only $80 on advertising! Other than that, their best advertising has been from satisfied customers.

Who uses the HAGOTH? HOLLYWOOD AGENTS negotiate contracts for movie stars, ATTORNEYS negotiate fee settlements, PSYCHIATRISTS help troubled patients find their emotional hot spots, PUR-

CHASING AGENTS make sure their firms get the lowest possible prices, and BUSINESSMEN can be assured their associates have genuine confidence in proposed new ventures. And some of their customers have observed things about politicians that would blow you right off your chair.

If you're a businessman, it's not hard to cost-justify the HAGOTH. And imagine the fun you can have watching politicians' press conferences.

If you'd like to get your hands on this ultimate executive tool, call Rick Bennett at (206) 235-1020. He can take care of most of the details over the telephone. If you'd like to read their analysis of the Nixon-Frost Watergate interview, or if you're interested in what they found out when they flew to Washington, D.C. (at the request of the Republican National Committee) to analyze the 1976 Presidential Debates, you can order their new book on the fundamentals of voice stress analysis by sending $8.75 to The HAGOTH Corporation, CPR-12350-206th Place S.E., Issaquah, Washington 98027. Washington residents add 5.4% sales tax.

Keep your eyes on the boys at HAGOTH. They just might come up with that laser sword yet.
