FOREWORD

The Army Aviation Flight Information Digest is published weekly. Every fourth week a complete issue will be published followed by three weekly supplemental issues. The latest supplemental issue together with the last complete issue contains the latest known notices to Army aviators. It provides current and permanent flight information for Army, National Guard and Army Reserve aviation activities.

Notices of permanent and temporary hazardous conditions concerning airfield and communication facilities, special notices, flight procedures and other related Army aeronautical items are included in this Digest.

Airfield installation commanders are responsible for submitting changes in airfield conditions, facilities, services, air navigational aids and other matters affecting operations at such airfield installation by the most expeditious means, as per AR 95-14, to the agencies listed below:

1. Nearest Federal Aviation Agency Flight Service Station.
2. Commanding Officer, U. S. Army Aviation Flight Information and NavAids Office,
Washington, D. C. 20315 Stop: 48 (Telephone OXford 68741)

Errors or necessary changes in flight information publications as well as inquiries and suggestions concerning this publication should be forwarded directly to Commanding Officer, U. S. Army Aviation Flight Information and NavAids Office, Washington, D. C. 20315 STOP 48

Information contained in this document is based upon the most reliable sources of operational data available to this office. Every effort is made to check the accuracy and adequacy of this data prior to its release for publication. The use of this publication, however, does not preclude the necessity for preflight review of the latest NOTAMS, related flight data and directives available in each airfield operations office.
