

Dear George,

5/10/96

Sorry yours of the 29th got covered over and forgotten. I'm concentrating on getting as much on paper as I can. That is my priority and I sometimes forget other things.

I've forgotten about Morgan and several others who found shells and even bullets that neither the FBI nor the police wanted to know a thing about.

I have no reason to believe the Dallas police were part of any plot. What that Walt Brown did and said is outrageous. He did a book on that. Bad and ignorant book.

With the exception of the rifle - doubt there is a real chain of possession on almost anything.

I do not regard Polin as honest. If you read how he handled the Howlands in WW II you'll get an illustration. Also his timing on getting Oswald to the scene of the Tippit killing on time. Which he couldn't and that was with omissions, too. I refer to him as a Judenrat. What I added to PhotoWW includes what he suppressed on the Rockefeller Commission.

I do not think any of the Dallas doctors lied. I think their recollections were distorted by all the phonies who interviewed them by pressing arguments on them. Some of that stuck in their minds.

Of the lawyers on the ^{case} ~~case~~ not being able to read X-rays may be the least of their sins/failings.

I do not think the autopsy film was fooled with. Some may be missing but what remains destroys the official mythology. Why would anyone go to that risk and wind up with the opposite of what they ran the risk for, disproof of the official mythology?

Bullets do do strange things but that does not include going through cloth without leaving a hole and much else relating to the magic bullet. Some of that in Post Mortem.

The line was washed in Dallas. That destroys the value of anything later found in it, especially what was not tested for blood or tissue remnants.

With those Commission lawyers, not one tangled with the FBI on anything. It was not necessarily wool over the eyes. It was fear. Besides which they knew what was expected of them.

Tague says he was not hit by the first shot and that the shots he heard came from the knoll area.

Excuse the haste. Best,

New ribbon!

Harold

Dear Harold,

Got your letter today and am grateful for the offer. It may be some time before I can get those, but rest assured I'll show up. I'll write first & prepare a list of documents. If they're not readily accessible, I'll follow your instructions & dig them out of the files. My back is bad, but I can still climb steps. It's only real bad if I sit for long periods.

I suppose I'll show my ignorance, but what ever became of Mr. Dean Morgan? The man who found the shell casing on the roof of the Dallas County Records Bldg. Was he a fraud? And if not, perhaps what he found was an empty (expended) accelerator round casing.

Also, I have always been impressed by the ineptitude of the Dallas Police. Were they really as careless as they seem, or do you think they were a part of the plot also? Their police work was lack luster to say the least and they broke the chain of evidence with the damned shell casings on the sixth floor.

Now, I hope you won't be upset by this, but I've always felt that a man like David Belin was basically honest. I've read both of his books among many others and he tells a good story. Is it all just a story, or was he really fooled by the evidence tampering by the FBI? Is it really possible to pull the wool over the eyes of a good attorney?

Now, and this really bothers me, the autopsy photos.

Some time ago I saw a NOVA program on PBS, hosted by Walter Cronkite. In it, they had the Dallas emergency room doctors examine the photos & X rays in the archives. They all said that the photos & X rays matched what they saw years ago in the emergency room. Where they lying? Or, is the problem, as I have often suspected, that the many laymen who have investigated the case simply ^{haven't} not understood how to read X rays, decipher medical terminology, and have misinterpreted the photos. Or, were all the photos and X rays really altered. If so, why did the Dallas Doctors say they all looked correct?

You've probably answered all of these questions in your books, but I haven't read them all, yet! Don't worry, I'll get it done.

Now, about the curb stone that was hit. I'm not the best expert, but I am a trained Huntsmith, who fired Expert in the Marines three times and who shoots everyday (almost). I'm also a fully certified NRA firearms instructor and a combat veteran of SE Asia. I've seen bullets do some damned funny things (including take down two men with one shot) and I believe that in all cases, "truth is stranger than fiction"!

My reasoning works like this. The first shot missed the car (to the right rear) either due to poor sights, clipping a tree branch, etc. and hit the street at max. velocity and shattered. I believe one fragment hit J & K in the scalp (the Tisher fragment) as discovered by the Ramsey Clark panel. I think the two big fragments found in the car came from that bullet, hence no blood or brain on them. One of those pieces, was only empty jacket. I think the core from that piece is what flew over the car, or under and hit the curb by James Teague. He did say he ducked under the overpass right after the shooting started. Like I said, I've seen bullets do some very strange things.

What do you think of my idea?
