Jon and Abra

By Jon and Abra Anderson

SPRINGFIELD REPORTERS can hardly wait to pop a BIG question to Gov. Ogilvie when he holds his next press conference: Is he planning to drop out of politics when his present term ends — to hit Washington in a big way as successor to FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover?

When they get the answer to that one, their second question will concern the involvement of Sen. Charles Percy in pulling off the switcheroo.

Hal---

Happy New Year again.

Got your note of the 28th...the Post Office seems to have recovered from the annual clog. Got it yesterday.

No, I don't believe it would be wise to send me any material on Vallee. Only my curiosity would be served. And I don't have "a need to know."

Did I send in my last note the enclosed on Orgible and the Feebees? I'm using the trial ~~balloon~~ balloon as a lever to pry loose some documents I need on him which previously ~~was~~<sup>were</sup> denied me on grounds the party didn't want to get involved.

He's involved now, at least potentially, as is every other citizen and alien in the U.S. We'll see if my patriotism pitch works within a few days.

My local state senator wants to draft a bill on "none of the above." Also has me working on a bill to provide automatic class action benefits to the small taxpayer in cases where a levy is declared illegal. I believe I'm going to try to expand the concept, even if it means a package of companion bills, so we can call it the "Taxpayers' Bill of Rights." Who, in their right mind, would oppose it?
