INCA VS. OSWALD

AWARDS RECEPTION TONIGHT OVER FORTY TO BE HONORED

The first INCA Awards Reception will be held this evening from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m. at 33 Nussan Drive in Metairie.

Host Maurice W. Grundy, INCA 1963 Awards Reception Chairman said today that the Awards program would start shortly after 7:00 p.m. and that over forty members and friends of INCA who have made exceptional sacrifices for INCA would be honored.

Mr. Grundy said another highlight of the meeting would be the full, unedited, original tape recording of the now-famous Oswald debate.

Edward Scannell Butler, INCA Executive Vice President, will be on hand to answer member's questions about the personality and motivation of the assassin, Grundy said.

"The Oswald episode proved conclusively that private citizens can combat communist propaganda effectively—INCA professionals collected and presented evidence that drove Oswald from New Orleans before he could do too much damage here. Had there been an organization similar to INCA, or an INCA branch in Dallas, the President of the United States might never have been murdered," Grundy said.

Mr. Grundy congratulated the Award Generals and Captains for their excellent work in developing the Reception program.

INCA Awards Generals are: Mr. Gonzalo Abunna, Jr.; Mr. Martin Gurtler II; Mr. Pat Browne, Jr.; Dr. William Locke; Mr. Robert Ratnold; Mr. Cecil Shiltone; Mr. Eli Tullis; and Mr. E. D. Wingfield.

INCA Awards Captains are: Dr. James Allen; Capt. John Ayers; Dr. Gustav Bahn; Mr. Bruce Baird; Mr. Earl Bartlett; Mr. Richard Baumbach; Dr. William Brannan; Mr. Gibbons Burke; Mr. J. H. Collins; Mr. Thomas Connell; Mr. Richard Drown, Jr.; Mr. Charles Dunbar III; Mr. B. Frank Eahleman; Mr. C. Allen Favrot; Mr. Gervais Favrot; Mr. Fred Fischer; Mr. J. Mason Guillory; Mr. Aaron Kohn; Dr. John Menville; Mr. William Monaghan; Mr. R. Kirk Moyer; Dr. Alton Och-sner, Jr.; Mr. George Piazza; Mr. Eustis Reily; Mr. E. M. Rowley; Mr. McDonald Stephens; Dr. Norton Voorhies; Mr. J. Walter Ward, Jr.; Mr. Leon Irwin, III; Mr. Walter J. Barnes; and Rev. Dr. J. D. Grey.

The Award Generals will report on their Subscription canvass of the INCA members, and INCA Vice-President for Financial Affairs Wallace M. Davis urged all INCA members to subscribe generously and promptly so that the 1964 budget can be solidly programmed.

Dr. Och-sner

Dr. Och-sner has led INCA from the earliest days and his opinions, both of the organization and its prospects in Latin America, are founded on thirty years of humanitarian experience with the citizens and governments of the Latin American republics.

In his personal report to each member, Dr. Och-sner stressed these INCA accomplishments: One hundred twenty-six cooperating radio stations broadcasting TRUTH TAPES in 16 nations; five hundred twenty-six TRUTH TAPES in distribution; the Conference for Unity of the Americas' bright promise as a means of unifying the efforts of free men and organizations against communist tyranny; the TRUTH TAPES FOR TEACHING program in English which has already proved so successful in educating (INCA Executive Vice President, Edward Scannell Butler confronted Lee Harvey Oswald, the assassin of President John F. Kennedy in a panel debate on radio station WDSU, August 21, 1963, just a few weeks before the President's murder. Worldwide speculation on Oswald's motivation and mental condition are rife. Mr. Butler was called to Washington less than 48 hours after the crime to confer with top officials on the case, since he was the only propagandist specialist ever to interview Oswald. The following is a summary which analyzes the meaning of the Oswald episode.—Editor)

THE MOTIVATION OF AN ASSASSIN

by Edward Scannell Butler

(copyright Edward Scannell Butler, 1963)

The murder of President John F. Kennedy by a doctrinaire, self-confessed Marxist—three years exposed to communism in Russia—proves beyond doubt the power of words as weapons.

Unfortunately, the picture of Lee Harvey Oswald that is beginning to emerge in some quarters does not fully match the firsthand impressions I gleaned just a few weeks before the President's murder. INCA members in various states and the TRUTH network in Latin America are entitled to the facts that we have, both from Oswald's own lips and from my analysis of the man.

I met him at 5:30 on a hot Friday afternoon in the studios of WDSU radio in New Orleans.

I was there to participate in a panel debate which had been arranged by Latin American affairs reporter Bill Stuckey. Moderating the program was WDSU newsman Bill Slatter, and presenting the Cuban viewpoint was exile leader Carlos Bringuier.

It is worthwhile to consider why I was there in the first place. The answer is, because you, the members and friends of INCA, made it possible. INCA has spent nearly three years, not merely studying, but fighting communist propaganda at the grass roots level in 16 countries. We know from research and experience what works, what won't. We could predict—because we knew the Red line,—what Oswald would say on most topics. We knew what to ask and what to avoid. Within a day we had a briefcase full of facts and figures of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee, as well as the entire story of Oswald's defection with authentic quotes, because I knew whom to contact. In addition we had our own library and clipping file, and a competent staff to back me up and secure substantiating data.

We had the facilities to make the long-distance calls, tape recorders and a headquarters to listen for hours to earlier testimony that Oswald had taped for Stuckey, until I knew his

THE NEW ERA

As 1963 approaches the final hours, INCA prepares to complete its third year of operations and enter a new era. The lessons of our past, can guide us as we look to the future. It is therefore particularly appropriate at this time to review the year-end Progress Report by President Alton Och-sner.

Dr. Och-sner has led INCA from the earliest days and his opinions, both of the organization and its prospects in Latin America, are founded on thirty years of humanitarian experience with the citizens and governments of the Latin American republics.

every strong point and weak spot. And most important, we had freedom to act as private citizens to deprive Oswald of the mass support he was seeking. Technically he had then committed no crime, so no official could touch him. Free societies can't permit a Federal Thought Control Agency to censor, suppress or dispute anyone's views, so officials couldn't even meet him on the propaganda battlefield. But because there was a private professional organization here in New Orleans Oswald was decisively beaten on the battleground he had picked—mass media.

Discredited, Oswald dropped out of sight, and left New Orleans before he did too much damage here. For this rout every INCA member and friend can take a fair share of credit. Moreover the model we have created can be copied throughout the hemisphere.

Some members have conjectured that an INCA branch office in Dallas could have professionally neutralized Oswald there and perhaps saved the President's life. No one can be sure of course. But an INCA branch could certainly have helped expose him to public view and made it more difficult to commit a hidden crime.

ASSASSIN'S PROFILE

Oswald's hand was clammy as I shook it, and he had an air of arrogance and suppressed tension. Before the debate his face was tight, sarcastic, on guard, yet with no superfluous motions. When I mentioned that a merchant was "progressive" in his business, Oswald looked around quickly in the midst of another conversation at the first syllable of the word "progressive". Then when he understood the content of the statement—that it was being applied to capitalism—his glance changed into a smirk of disgust.

He seemed particularly antagonistic toward me. Other onlookers noticed it and mentioned it before I had the opportunity to ask. Later, at home, I took the precaution of taping all of the TV commentaries about the interview.

FOOL OR FANATIC?

Was Oswald insane? He appeared to be not only sane but an extremely articulate and clever proponent of the communist-ling cause of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee, which he represented as local Secretary. I can judge, not merely from our debate, but from a previous analysis of a 30 minute tape recorded interview with reporter Bill Stuckey, which is as yet unpublished. Oswald was a proficient propagandist. He used propaganda methods like subject parallelism, target narrowing and expansion, and other technical tricks of the propagandist's trade. Moreover he was thoroughly familiar with the party line, and gave an excellent account of himself when asked the standard questions in the first interview. He did much worse in the debate against a planned, unorthodox attack. An attack which was aimed, not at the communist line he was trying to sell, but at the seller himself. Communists and their sympathizers can seldom withstand such an approach, which prevents them from abusing the freedom of the press by turning it into a propaganda platform. But Oswald tried.

Of course a good case can be made for the fact that communist propaganda had converted Oswald into a conditioned social schizophrenic just like Lenin, Hitler, Stalin and Castro. He undoubtedly saw the real world through eyes distorted by unreal images of class or race warfare. But the point is, that such deliberately induced criminal insanity is the clear-cut responsibility of the official hate-propaganda of communist regimes. The communist line draws a dead bead on every institution and leader of the Free World. Through a sophisticated propaganda network it dumps a mountain of hate into the receptive minds of mankind.

It is hard for some Americans to understand how a young boy of 15, reading a pro-communist pamphlet about the Rosenberg traitors, can be converted as Oswald was—over a period of nine years under the gradual, but merciless assault of words as weapons—into a political assassin.

Yet we must understand it, or President Kennedy's death will have been in vain. The motivation for Oswald's acts are to be found in these quotes he gave to a U.P.I. correspondent in Moscow in 1959. Regarding his first reading of Marx's Das Kapital, he said, "It was like a very religious man opening the Bible for the first time." Then he started to "study Marxist economic theories," he told the reporters on his trip to Russia. "I could see the impoverishment of the masses before my own eyes in my own mother. I thought the worker's life could be better. I found some Marxist books on dusty shelves in the New Orleans library and continued to indoctrinate myself for five years."

THE 'COMMUNIST' QUESTION

A second question which has bothered Americans is whether or not Oswald the admitted Marxist, was subject to Leninist discipline.

Professor Anthony J. Bouscaren says in his book, "A guide to Anti-Communist Action":

"There is no doubt that the communist network holds an attraction for adventurous spirits who thrive on the conspiratorial atmosphere within the party, the secret meetings, the resort to aliases, the paraphernalia of illegality and opposition to constituted authority. Those who tend to rebel against tradition and convention, Bohemians and nonconformists of all kinds—are naturally attracted to the communist movement. By its repudiation of so-called capitalist ethics and moral standards, the party provides a welcome philosophical sanction for the lunatic fringe.

"The party is a vehicle for anyone with an axe to grind, for anyone who has become embittered. Second-rate artists, lawyers without clients, doctors without patients, writers without outlets, underpaid teachers with inferiority complexes—all these are soothed by the thought that it is all the fault of the capitalist system. They find, in the party, an instrument to vent their spleen against the imagined source of injury, as well as a receptive audience."

But in spite of the fact that "Officers found letters in Lee Harvey Oswald's room written to him on letterheads of the Communist Party of America, the party newspaper, the Worker, and the Fair Play for Cuba Committee . . ." (Washington Post, Thursday, November 28, 1963, Pg. A-4) no formal links with party discipline have yet been found.

The distinction is a hard one for average Americans to comprehend. The party uses three kinds of participants in its work.

1—The disciplined party member who acts like a social soldier under orders.

2—The indoctrinated communist sympathizer whose contributions come in the form of money and/or work for the party on a volunteer basis.

3—The dupe, or useful fool, who works and/or donates to communist causes without realizing their full impact.

Oswald seems to have fitted into the second category. He was filled with the standard brand of communist hate. And that hate—conveyed always by words from communists to their sympathizers—finally moved the mind, that actuated the trigger, that killed the President of the United States. The links of guilt are visible and obvious.

THE MENTAL BLOCK

Yet many Americans hesitate to believe that communism caused the death of the President of the United States. This is as understandable as it is dangerous.

It is understandable because the average American can imagine no appropriate penalty for the murder of the President other than nuclear war; which however would kill millions of our own people, as well as millions of communist slaves. Since no one wants

Dastugue Named Organizational Consultant

INCA President Dr. Alton Ochsner announced today the appointment of real estate executive Paul F. Dastugue as an Organizational Consultant to INCA.

"Mr. Dastugue's years of accomplishment as an organizer are well known, especially to the citizens of Jefferson Parish where he founded the Young Men's Business Club of Jefferson, the largest civic organization in the parish after only one year."

Martin M. Gurtler II Studio Dedicated

INCA member Martin M. Gurtler II was the recipient of the following Resolution of Commendation at the first INCA TRUTH FORUM.

WHEREAS, INCA has progressed so far and fast because of the generosity of its members and

WHEREAS, the latest example of this teamwork is the most generous gift of a recording studio, including all sound insulation and construction and,

WHEREAS, the TRUTH TAPES program has been immeasurably helped by this generous gift and

WHEREAS, the donor is Mr. Martin M. Gurtler II an INCA member in good standing

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that said studio shall be known hereafter by all INCA members and the general public as the Martin M. Gurtler II Studio.

The resolution was offered by INCA treasurer Maurice W. Grundy and passed unanimously.

INCA Chapter Extension Planned

The Organizational Affairs Council, is discussing plans for extending INCA chapters on a regional basis according to Edgar A. G. Bright, Vice President for Organizational Affairs.

"Although INCA now has members in 16 of the United States and broadcasting stations in 16 Latin American nations", Bright said, "we must give interested individuals and organizations throughout the hemisphere a greater opportunity to participate."

"Those interested in INCA's program can subscribe for as little as $5 per month to $300 per month or more."

Bright said that speaking engagements around the nation will continue to be accepted by the President, Executive Vice-President and certain specially qualified INCA members, as in 1963.

U. S. high schoolers; the generous comments of so many recognized officials and experts; the expanding membership; the top notch production center with production and security facilities; TRUTH FORUM and other advances in our fight for freedom in the Americas.

But as President Dr. Ochsner pointed out, the continuation and progress of INCA depends first and foremost on the support of its present members and friends. The personal subscription program is the bulwark of that support.

Dr. Ochsner made the point that INCA is a unique organization, in that it has two distinct types of financial outlay:

First, the organizational expense for mailings, meetings and publications which every service group has—this is covered by dues from members.

Second, the recurring production expense for TRUTH TAPES and other educational research operations—this is covered by monthly subscriptions from members, friends, corporations, foundations.

INCA needs both kinds of support if it is to "mass produce" TRUTH TAPES during 1964, and meet its other commitments to the cause of Liberty Under Law in the Americas.

The demand for TRUTH TAPES from Latin America has been phenomenal, and scores of warm requests for increased distribution have been received from our cooperating stations in Latin America. Until now we have had no systematic way of informing members, friends, and cooperating organizations of the country by country need, and the requests for assistance from our fellow fighters for freedom to the south.

With this preview issue of INCA Victory—an official monthly publication—a milestone has been passed, and the scope and efforts of INCA will be chronicled henceforth, as they occur. Beginning in January 1964 a special Department on Inter-American Affairs will help INCA members and friends to gauge the effectiveness of the INCA effort in each nation.

No organization can be properly run unless the management has an idea of the minimum "accounts receivable", it can expect each month, in order to budget purchases, trips, salaries and the other disbursements that are required. Speaking to INCA members personally Dr. Ochsner said, "I urge you to be as generous as possible . . . remembering that a small sacrifice now can help prevent a total loss later."

The Awards Reception will bring 1963 to a close with a well deserved spark of glory for those who have done so much during INCA's first phases. But the light we've generated thus far could diminish to a mere glimmer in the gloom, unless we use it to guide the forces of freedom into the future.

That does require sacrifice—of time, of money—but as Dr. Ochsner has also noted . . . "those who have seen communism in action are deeply convinced that INCA methods can stop the Reds. They remember that communist leaders from Lenin to Castro have always been private citizens, working where governments cannot reach effectively."

That is the lesson we must never forget.

INCA THANKS

SENATOR THOMAS J. DODD (D-Conn.) for his detailed statement about INCA before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which was published in the Senate Document called "Training of Foreign Affairs Personnel."

CONGRESSMAN HALE BOGGS (D-La.) for his comments about INCA in the October 10th issue of the CLARION HERALD in an article called "Congressman Warns of Apathy in Wake of Nuclear Test Treaty."

SENATOR KARL MUNDT (R-N.D.) for his remarks about INCA in a recent letter which he cleared for publication.

CONGRESSMAN DANTE FASCELL (D-Fla.) for his invitation to present the INCA story to his House Foreign Affairs Subcommittee on International Organizations. Executive Vice-President Butler's testimony will soon be published in the Hearings of the Subcommittee.

THE LOUISIANA ASSOCIATION OF YOUNG MEN'S BUSINESS CLUBS and outgoing President Paul Dastugue for the honor of addressing their annual meeting and the Resolution endorsing the TRUTH TAPES program.

THE INCA PHYSICIANS FOR FREEDOM COMMITTEE, which sponsored a mailing to all members of the Orleans Parish Medical Society last month.

DR. ROBERT J. MEADE, INCA Director, who wrote the members of the National Association of Plastic & Reconstructive Surgery on behalf of INCA.

DR. JAMES H. ALLEN, INCA Chief of Protocol who traveled to Denver to tell the INCA story to his fellow members of the American Association of Physicians and Surgeons.

TRUTH FORUM RATES PRAISE

The monthly TRUTH FORUM meetings for the INCA general membership began on October 8th with an address spotlighting Guatemala by the Rev. Chester Cadwallader, a Spanish speaking American missionary with 10 years experience in that nation. This was followed on November 19th by an address spotlighting Argentina by Cuban exile lawyer Carlos Bringuer, who is married to the daughter of an Argentinian diplomat and fought communist penetration in the universities.

"The INCA members and press have responded enthusiastically to the TRUTH FORUM concept. TRUTH FORUM gives average private citizens who really know Latin America a chance to describe what everyday life is like, to the members and guests as well as the public through the news media," said R. Kirk Moyer, INCA Vice President for TRUTH FORUM.

Highlights of the TRUTH FORUM are personal anecdotes by the speakers who have lived through communist operations.

Reverend Cadwallader recalled an incident that occurred as he was driving through a Guatemalan town with his father: "Communist students raising funds for a special trip to Cuba threw a spiked plank across the road in front of the car and demanded a five dollar contribution," he said. "I said that didn't sound like a contribution to me. They said I could drive across the spikes if I liked." By the time the minister had returned with a policeman, all the air had been let out of his tires.

Bringuer, who said that "Had there been an INCA five or six years ago, there would not be a communist colony called Cuba today." He described the technique of "Corrillos" which "involves two Communists starting a street corner debate, common in Argentina, similar to the Hyde Park soapbox debates in London. One will defend capitalism and the other Communism. When a large enough crowd congregates, the one defending democracy will concede that the pro-communist speaker is right. Usually, one or two 'plants' in the audience will side with the pro-communist speaker as well."

"The communists need trouble," said Bringuer, "so they manufacture it with agents who specialize as 'conflict managers'. The trouble is then twisted around by propaganda to make the communists appear to be defending the Latinos against 'Yanqui Vampires'.

Bringuer said "INCA is selling liberation all over Latin America. If the United States wins the propaganda war against the communists, there will be no need to fight the 'other war'," he said.

"The next TRUTH FORUM meeting will be held in January," said R. Kirk Moyer, Vice-President of the TRUTH FORUM, who praised the work of committee Chairman Rev. J. D. Grey, attendance; Benjamin C. Toledano, education; and Richard G. Drown, Jr., publicity.

Conference For Unity of Americas Recapped

Willard E. Robertson, INCA Vice-President for Project Development, said today that his council would soon complete preliminary work on the Conference for Unity of the Americas (UNICON) to be held in New Orleans during the summer of 1964.

The Conference, originally sponsored by the Institute for American Strategy, was adopted as an INCA project in early 1963 and Mr. Dan A. Sullivan Conference Chairman of IAS was named INCA Special Conference Consultant by Dr. Ochsner when he visited New Orleans to initiate work on the Conference in April.

Sullivan, a longtime conference organizer, who spearheaded the famed Joint Military Educational and Industrial Conferences has assembled nearly 250 co-sponsoring organizations from throughout the hemisphere, and experts in many fields have agreed to participate.

Robertson called on INCA mem-

Communist Discrimination Bared

INCA production manager Manuel Gil was recently in Miami where he interviewed numerous Cuban Refugees.

He reestablished important contacts with several anti-communist organizations.

A representative of the "Committee to Abolish Discrimination Against the Negro in Cuba" told Gil that 500,000 Negroes' passports were torn up, some by Castro himself in order to prevent Negroes from fleeing the island "paradise". "The communists were afraid of the adverse publicity that a Negro exodus would have among the Negro population in the United States" an informed source said.

Most of the numerous Cuban Negroes now in the Miami area were thus forced to flee in small boats in order to escape, the representative said.

Members interested in the Conference to contact him through INCA headquarters.

to commit national suicide or kill innocent people, we are assuming the blame for communist guilt ourselves, in order to continue to co-exist, and also maintain some shred of self respect.

It is a dangerous attitude. If the communists ever get the idea that Americans will accept any provocation, up to and including the assassination of the President of the United States, then their audacity will increase, their power greed will grow and our days of liberty will be numbered.

Therefore in order to maintain our self respect and also continue our pursuit of world peace we must:

1—Admit to ourselves that communist hate-propaganda killed the President of the United States by motivating the man that pulled the trigger.

2—Admit to ourselves that nuclear warfare is not the most appropriate response because it might not reach the minority of communist fanatics (who are the real culprits) before killing millions of innocent people.

3—Admit to ourselves that words are the ultimate weapons, because they can move the minds that have the power to pull triggers and press buttons.

4—Admit to ourselves that from now on private citizens must help wage and win the new War of Words at the mass level in the INCA manner; and in this way ultimately help liberate the communist colonies, avenge the President's death, and avoid a nuclear conflict in the bargain.

With words, INCA beat Oswald in New Orleans by revealing his defection to Russia and forcing his admission that he was a Marxist.

With words over a network of 198 radio stations INCA is beating communists in 18 Latin American nations. For instance, INCA has 17 stations in Venezuela alone, where the isolated communist minority, lacking mass support for their riots, strikes and demonstrations have been forced to resort to terror. And they are being decisively beaten.

With words, we can demonstrate to the people of each one of the communist dominated slave nations how to gradually pry away the grip of their communist overlords.

We must never forget that the great power the relatively few communists have, is in the minds of the masses of people they manipulate. Sharp, well-directed words can penetrate to the center of that power, and carefully cut it out, without endangering the whole of humanity in nuclear war.

We must always remember that communist propaganda is aimed at the U. S. primarily to create hate, not secure conversions. Therefore a violent mirror image reaction—be it left or right—must be avoided. We need not hate communists, rather pity them like the criminal lunatics many are. But we must work to destroy the communist party organization which grants maniacs the power to coerce and manipulate sane men.

It takes professionals to do this job, and the Oswald incident is an example of what professional techniques can do, when applied on the mass media battleground. There is where the war of words will be won or lost.
