

This Washington Post ²2/92 story indicates the ignorance of fact of the conspiracy theorists and the futility of what they do.

With all the publicity the Stone movie has gotten and all the stories on disclosing records, it is surprising that only 30 people were there. This may indicate how small the organizations are. Or, how little interest they were able to generate.

They know so little they demand that the archives be opened when only 2 percent of the Warren Commission's records remain withheld.

If they had in mind demanding that HSCA's records be disclosed, they demonstrated at the wrong place. Only the Congress can authorize disclosure of its records that are withheld by its rules or laws. They did not demonstrate at the Congress.

Judge is a real nut. For a while he was associated with the queen of them all, the late Mac Brussell.

Open JFK Files Sought

■ About 30 people rallied in the cold outside the National Archives yesterday to ask for full disclosure of the assassination files on President John F. Kennedy and other sealed documents.

The noon demonstration on the Mall was sponsored by the Committee for an Open Archives and the Baltimore Emergency Response Network, two groups that view the release of the Oliver Stone movie "JFK" as "an important milestone in exposing illegal covert activities."

"With the film out there, there's a general national consensus to open the files" said John Judge, a rally participant. "Even some of the former Warren Commission members have said open them up."

Last week, 13 former counsel and staff members of the Warren Commission urged all government agencies, including the FBI and the CIA, to open all records compiled in the investigation of the 1963 slaying of Kennedy.
