

Dear Jim,

1/24/76

I'm made some arrangements for you of which you'll probably hear before you get this. I hope you can organize it so that you can use them. This will vary from getting xeroxing done for you to emergency baby-sitting.

Whether or not they are all at American Univ I don't know. The one whose phone I gave you is and when there is help needs until you know otherwise start there. For example, when you come up here, have one of them at your place by the time the baby-sitter has to leave.

Alex has Wednesday's off. His classes then are at night. He wants a xerox of your Ray brief, as does Floyd. Perhaps others. I want an extra. So, he can go to Panic Press with a copy and get all those needed xeroxed. He will get whatever other xeroxing you want done at the same time so while you can't prepare for this now, you can for another time.

There is research they can and will do, they have wheels and in DC they have public transportation.

I expect them here next weekend to do some recartoning for me so I can ship WWIs to Whirlwind. They have seen what this means, what the similar work that needs to be done is, and are willing.

They impressed me favorably, substantial young people. What appears to have steered them to me is aversion for Lane. He turned them off and his people, who tried to penetrate a larger group of which they are part, offended them.

Their interests include King.

Two are girls. One of the boys has diapered babies. I do not know anything about the others in their group. Some may be GW or they may know Scott in another way.

I had a list of possible aids ready and went over it. If more come next weekend than can work without being in each other's way in the basement I'll get some files readied for dead storage by being put in order first. Need the space.

I've done the random note on The Martin Luther King Conspiracies and have a carbon for you. If you have time to think of a rough very general outline I'd welcome it. I've been thinking and have tended to switch to an opening other than I had started, with the FBI's hangups - Hoover's hate and his Cointelpros/Invaders. Had Les not added to what I had it was enough. I'd started with Tyler on "no other suspect" but it is less dramatic. Wyler can be part of the same first chapter perhaps but I think the Invaders story provides motive. It may very well be that in your own planning of the organization of the brief you'd done the thinking that can provide the best structure.

Back to these kind: they impress me well, they seem to be <sup>to be part</sup> want/ of something worthwhile and unselfish, they want to do something to combat all the disillusionment their intelligence provides, so if you have an accumulation of things you wanted done and could not get to, give them a crack. It will be good for them and can be for you/us.

Example : you mount your clippings. I'll bet one of them will undertake to do this on a regular basis for you. One or more.

Best,
