MATA HARI BLUES: Ms-taken Identities

"The CIA has also used narcotics men from time to time to maintain 'love dens' in New York City and San Francisco, where prostitutes in the pay of the agency have lured foreign intelligence officers and then later tried to blackmail them into divulging secret information...the agency has generated a campaign to recruit more women as well as more blacks and members of other minorities."

- "Women of the CIA", Parade Magazine, July 15, 1975

"Why do you think it's important to expose your FBI experiences?"

"I guess the most important reason is, I don't want fascism in this country. And after having worked for the government, I understand only too well that there are the structures for fascism in this country; the structures for 1984, through LEAA (Law Enforcement Assistance Administration), through the interconnection of a lot of different state police...there has been a federalization of the police force."

- Liberation News Service interview with FBI informant Mary Joe Cook

Women in the CIA and FBI. Who'd a think it? Not exactly my idea of liberation. Ever since my early suspicions about the CIA having an "all woman combat team", I have begun to stumble across clues that some public figures are more than they seem. Lee and Marina Oswald introduced me in my research to a "marriage of convenience", before that I had heard of sleeping in separate rooms - but not separate houses. So this is a review of my current rogue's gallery who got a double-take out of me when I checked their backgrounds. I don't want to unduly upset you monogamists out there, so try to realize that your level of paranoia about the woman you're with is a function of the sexism you've been taught. We can only be manipulated to the extent that we refuse to stop manipulating others. Their control is a function of our fear.

MARY JOE KOPECHNE

Mary Joe was an important political figure. Some researchers, like Mae Russell, contend she may even have been an infiltrator into the Kennedy camp. Whatever the truth, and her parents are finally calling for a long-overdue drudging of the facts, here are some amazing coincidences. Part of an interchangeables secretary pool, Mary Joe had worked with one-time Kennedy intimates, Sen. George Smathers of Florida. Supposedly a friend of JFK, Smathers must have felt some conflict of interest. Jeff Garth, a syndicate researcher, claims Smathers represented mob interests in Florida for years. He certainly seems in the thick of the Miami-Havana connection and blackmarket rubber profiteering in SWFL. This links him to such mob hopefuls as Tatum "Chubby" Wofford, his high-school buddy Ebeke Rehobo, his campaign manager and corrupt Dade County Sheriff Jim Sullivan, and our old pal Richard Nixon. Another Smathers secretary who knew Mary Joe was Carol Tyler, a former secretary of LBJ's alleged partner in infamy, Bobby Baker. Carol died in a mysterious plane crash. Mary Joe was the last person to view the now secret 10-volume police report in Los Angeles on Robert Kennedy's assassination - a report that many now believe may include evidence of conspiracy.

Mary Joe Kopechne was of great interest to the Watergate crew. John Dean revealed that his first espionage job in the White House had been carrying reports on her European trips. Tony Ulaszewitz, NY cop and hagsman for the Watergate team, admitted that he set up a plush apartment, complete with agents, to seduce and sexually blackmail Mary Joe's roommates. All this for third-hand information on Ted? I don't think so.

Mary Joe was killed at Chappaquiddick. Ted Kennedy wasn't in the car. The trial transcript and common sense prove this. A deputy saw the car hours after it was supposed to have dove into the water, sitting on a nearby road. It isn't easy to escape from a submerged car; strong currents and water pressure rattle out Ted's escape and confused swin across the bay. He came down to the motel lobby in dry clothes asking the time, a chambermaid saw no wet ones. He could have gotten help quickly from a still-lit house nearby, or called the ferry to come. It took Mary Joe two hours to asphyxiate, according to the diver who removed her from the car. The coroner never explained the blood on her blouse. The trial judge bristled, "You're all lying through your teeth". Why and how is yet a mystery, as is Ted's compliant confession of a crime he didn't commit. But Kennedy acquiescence, as always, must be weighed in the light of the evidence, not the other way around. I often wonder if JFK had any friends; but if Mary Joe had any, wouldn't it make sense to ask a few questions?

What was Tony Ulaszewitz doing on Chappaquiddick, and when did he arrive? He claims he rushed in afterwards disguised as a reporter to ask all the wrong questions. But no one saw him. When did he prepare the press credentials? What was the purpose of the $10,000 in Watergate money that went from Kalesbach to Caulfield to Tony shortly before the incident? What is Operation Sandwedge, referred to in Caulfield's testimony, as taking place in the summer of '69? The wedding of an Olds 88 in Chappaquiddick sand? Isn't it time to add murder to the Watergate "dirty tricks" vocabulary?

DOROTHY HUNT

Sherman Skolnik, Chicago-based researcher, claims Dorothy Hunt was even higher in the CIA echelon than her husband, E. Howard Hunt. Another "marriage" for espionage convenience? Dorothy was carrying a lot of cash to Chicago on that fateful plane flight. $10,000 reportedly to buy a Marriott Motel in Chicago from her cousin. $40,000, say some reporters, in "Barker bills" from the secret Watergate fund, and upwards of $2 million in stocks and securities says Skolnik.

A "bagwoman" for the Watergate crew, claims one researcher, and hard evidence suggests the plane was sabotaged. A horrible crash that left scores dead. The plane, according to radio accounts on the scene that day, was surrounded by FBI who refused rescue crews access to the plane while they stripped bodies of identification. Michela Clark, black newswoman from CBS, died on the flight and was cremated. She had told her staff that she was about to get the scoop on Watergate from Dorothy. Abnormally high levels of cyanide were determined as the cause of death, well beyond the toxic level inhaled before gas poisoning leads to death. Other researchers charge a cover-up conspiracy involving Watergate figures who suddenly got appointed to the investigating agencies: White House aid Alexander Butterfield to the Federal Aviation Administration, Eyal "Bud" Krogh of the Plumbers to Undersecretary of Transportation, and aid Dwight Chapin to United Airlines' Board of Directors.

Can this United Flight into Chicago's Midway be chalked up to "pilot error", the official line? Massive electronic failure, a failure in the recording device just before the crash, altitude instruments fouled internally and by a low visibility ceiling, bad radar tracking, and failure of a transmitting "locator". All this, plus waiting FBI men who beat the fire and rescue teams to the plane while they stripped bodies of identification, came up from Jerry Joe's trap in that Oldsmobile. And how else do we make sense of John Ehrlichmann's Watergate testimony on Dorothy Hunt: "...she was delivering money to the Cubans (Note: her cousin is NOT Cuban) when they shot her plane down?"

What did the Hunts know that was worth a million to Nixon? What was the "can of worms" Nixon felt Hunt could open? What were the "many highly illegal conspiracies" Hunt threatens to reveal in the Bittman memo? In the last tapes, Nixon says, "The key to Watergate is the Bay of Pigs." Indeed, and what does it open? The structure of the Bay of Pigs, with Nixon at the top, folded into the Domestic Operations Division of the CIA; an anti-Castro "combustible" army of mercenaries for the CIA here and abroad; a "team" of men that Bernard Barker told the Watergate Committee he hadn't seen in "ten years", but was able to round up in "twenty minutes"; a Miami-New Orleans-Dallas/Houston-Toronto link of mob activities, heroin traffic, and political assassination. Nixon was in Dallas on November 22, 1963, even if Hunt wasn't, though Nixon "forgot" it for 11 years. The Cabell brothers provide a link between Dallas "turf" control back then (a family of sheriffs and mayors) and the CIA that one of them worked for (as well as currently sitting on the Board of Directors of the CIA's huge subsidiary, Pacific Corporation, which operates Air America airlines to fly heroin from SE Asia to routes ending in Toronto, Dallas/Houston, New Orleans, and Miami). No one ever understood why Mrs. Cabell gave Jackie red roses that tragic day, instead of the traditional yellow. Bissell, Alan Dulles (later a Warren Commission member) and White House "action officer", Richard Nixon that was the command structure before JFK came in and withdrew the air cover and began a deadly back-pedal.

The evidence of sabotage on Dorothy's plane was there, and Jaworski (former Warren Commission liason to the Texas courts), the Watergate Special Prosecutor, jumped ship rather than deal with it; leaving it in the hands of Mr. Ruth, an earlier head of the LEAA (see my articles on this CIA plot to control local police). Only Barbara Jordan still raises a voice in Congress to finish the probe. Maybe Dorothy Hunt just wasn't liked.

LETTERS

By Bill Williams (I think that's the way it's spelled).

Either I'm going mad or I see some one complaining about El Muerto agreeing with him. You should also tie a piece of toilet paper around your finger to remind yourself where you should place your C-R-A-P! And while on the subject of writing I read a lot of "On the Air" and have not missed an article since I started reading the "Raspberry" some months ago.

The Masked Avenger (member of the "El Muerto" fan club) "Defender of Right, Rescuer of Fair Maidens (Your Damn right I'm a male chauvinist Pig) and soon to be hero P.S. Is El Muerto on Welfare?"

Dear Editor:

After reading the second letter in as many issues at the expense of El Muerto, I feel that a few comments are in order. As the brother of El Muerto, perhaps some comments on his early life might shed some light on his propensity toward embitterness and vengefulness, a tendency which the rest of the family, luckily, has not fallen victim to. Unlike most children, El Muerto never began to speak by saying "Hi". I am told (I am his younger brother) that the first words uttered, upon his emergence from the womb, were "Greetings and Felicitations". During his formative years, El Muerto was continuously ostracized. When he would play football, once he had started to nail the signals, he couldn't get him to stop. I remember that he was always prone to the flamboyant. When playing hide-and-seek one night, he counted in Roman numerals. These vicissitudes had a profound effect on El Muerto's life. Before long, his upper extremities began to visibly shake. Our parents, not wishing to see his energy go to waste, tied him to a chair and placed a typewriter within striking distance. This turned out to be a dire mistake since this forced all of us, under the threat of severe trauma to El Muerto, to lie through our teeth. We had to convince him that we all believed that he had writing ability. I doubt very much whether the damage to the world will ever be fully gauged.

As a glowing comment, you may wonder how he got the name "El Muerto". The family gave him that name very shortly after he was born. It is simply wishful thinking. Very wishful thinking.

Sincerely,
Hermano de El Muerto
