Dear Mr. King,

Although the first of the cards you mailed on the 3rd says you do not expect an answer, and although I very much do not want to take time at this stage of my life to respond to such questions, I realize that they do concern people like you and I do not want to appear to be ~~inappropriate~~ impolite.

However, I'd appreciate it if you do not ask more like these, at least not until after you read the books you've ordered. - hope they will give you a better understanding of the actualities.

In general, most of the available books take advantage of the yearning of the people to know and understand what happened and why. Almost without exception they are not factual, they do deceive and mislead, and they are not to be trusted. Your question about "Farewell America" illustrates. It is a total gaffe.

There is no basis for the many books that present unproven theories as facts. It is not possible to carry <sup>forward</sup> any real investigation to determine who did what because the crime itself was never officially investigated and thus there are no legitimate leads.

I hope the hasty answers on the card, which I return herewith, give you some answers.

Best wishes,

Harold Weisberg
