

BOBCATS

868 Chelsea Lane
Westerville, Ohio 43081-2716
March 20, 1993

*Phoned
3/24/93*

Mr. Harold Weisberg
7627 Old Receiver Road Route 12
Frederick, Maryland 21702

Dear Mr. Weisberg:

Thank you for your prompt and positive reply on my request to spend some time with me on Monday, March 29. I will make every effort to arrive between 11:30-12:00 so that I may treat you and your wife to lunch, but if I don't, I will surely be there by 1:00. With the two boys with me, I can never be entirely sure of anything. I figure it will take us around an hour and a half or so to get to your place from DuPont Circle, but I will allow for more time; as I recall the traffic on Wisconsin Avenue in D. C. can slow one down.

Thank you for the map. I do remember how to get to your home once I hop off route 40 from our visit last year. This time I am prepared to have the boys busy searching for pine cones so they are not bored with my historical questions. I have some prepared from my reading of Whitewash (I) and II and from my general reading on the subject.

I will have several orders from friends and acquaintances for various of your books, including the corrected order for the two books for the school library where I work. I hope your stock is still plentiful! I regularly pass your flyers on to other researchers, students, teachers, and the like. I hope they are following up and ordering.

I am very pleased, along with others familiar with your work (Pat Jump, Tim Rathburn where I work; Tom Peet who has spoken with you by phone, etc.), that you have decided to write more! I am certain you will now find a publisher of your choice to distribute your latest work. Tom Peet, who has a PhD in Social Studies Education, and I, would like to offer to you our services, free of charge, with no credit asked or expected, to do a first editing (or final or both if you wish) of your new work. Both of us have written published articles, made scholarly presentations, and taught more than 40 years between us in addition to editing other books. You can let me know what you think when we visit.

© CSA Inc. DSN. 1023 Printed in USA I look forward to our visit. Sincerely Dave Keck

*614
890
8140*