

Today the World Remembers John Kennedy

Bobby Visits Brother's Grave

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy (D., N.Y.), and his wife Ethel made an early morning visit today to President Kennedy's grave on a frosty hillside at Arlington National Cemetery.

The late President's brother laid a pink rose on the grave. His wife brought two small simple bouquets — one of lilies of the valley, the other of white and gold chrysanthemums.

They knelt in prayer at the grave for about five minutes before leaving. Only a few reporters and photographers were present on this third anniversary of the assassination and the photographers acceded to request by Mrs. Kennedy not to take any pictures of her and her husband at the gravesite.

The temperature was in the 20's and the grass was white with frost in many places as the senator and Mrs. Kennedy arrived at the cemetery at 7:15 a.m. The cemetery does not open until 8 o'clock but guards opened the gates for the Kennedys.

HORIZON

The sun was barely above the horizon as the two proceeded to the grave about a quarter of a mile from the cemetery entrance.

Sen. Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy (D., Mass.), the slain President's other brother, was halfway around the world on this third anniversary of the assassination. He and his wife, on an African tour, were guests for a memorial ceremony in an

—UPI Photo

Among early visitors to the grave of President Kennedy at Arlington National Cemetery today were his sister, Mrs. Sargent Shriver, her husband, Poverty War director Sargent Shriver, and their children, Marie, 11, Timmy, 7, and Bobby, 12. The family is shown kneeling in prayer.

Algiers square renamed for the late President.

Sen. Robert Kennedy and other members of the family were expected to make quite visits to the Kennedy grave in Arlington National Cemetery.

President Johnson's naval aide, Cmdr. Worth Hobbs, was to place a wreath on the grave.

In Hyannis, Mass., the Rev. William D. Thomson was to celebrate the third memorial mass at St. Francis Xavier Church, where John Kennedy attended services for many years.

Otherwise it was a day of memories which, but for the revival of the circumstances of his death, centered on the grace, style and excitement of the Kennedy presidency.

President Johnson began the fourth year of his office in a subdued fashion at the LBJ ranch in Texas where he is recuperating from two operations.

Mr. Johnson's press secretary, Bill D. Moyers, said there would be no comment on a Life Magazine call for a new investigation of the assassination.

Reports challenging the commission find on Oswald were branded "pure garbage" by a former White House press aide, Malcolm M. Kilduff.

But Mr. Kilduff, now a Washington public relations man, did disagree with another commission finding — that the bullet which passed thru President Kennedy's neck was the one that wounded Texas Gov. John Connally.

While Mr. Kilduff said the commission did "as thoro a job as possible" he said both he and Gov. Connally believed the Texas governor was wounded by another bullet.

Mr. Kilduff, who flew back to Washington aboard Air Force One, with Mr. Johnson and the late President's body reported that things happened on the plane which could be "embarrassing both to the Kennedys and the Johnsons." But Mr. Kilduff refused to say what was meant by this reference. (UPI)