On 7/16/63 the Attorney General advised Assistant Director Evans concerning the possible communist influence in the racial situation he thought it advisable to have complete coverage. Approval for a technical surveillance on the SCLC Office in New York City or to any other address to which it may move was received on 10/10/63. On 10/30/63, this installation was completed. Production of this source was limited because the leadership of the SCLC Office in New York had not at that time been assigned to any specific individual. As of 1/24/64 this source was discontinued due to lack of productivity.

Subsequently New York advised in 4/64 that Adele Kanter, who is in charge of the SCLC Office in New York City, had been given different office space for the SCLC located at 15 E. 40th Street, New York City, the locality of the Gandhi Society for Human Rights. The SCLC was assigned room 1202 and phone LE 2-0277. Concerning the SCLC, New York has noted that there have been frequent contacts between Kanter and Levison. The importance of these contacts can be seen in recent instructions given to Kanter by Clarence Jones that she should not see Levison except in case of extreme emergency. Jones, a one time member of the Communist Labor Youth League, was the General Counsel for the Gandhi Society for Human Rights and has been indicated as an intermediary between King and Levison. Recently received information indicated that Levison suggested to Jones that Kanter should meet his friend, Saul Mills, as all she, Kanter, needs is "somebody to lean on." In May, 1950, Saul Mills was described as a concealed communist. It is noted that Mills may act as an intermediary between Kanter and Levison.
