'Judges' of British Television Show

London, Jan. 30-(UPI)-Two in developing the "one-bullet of short temper after nearly five leading legal authorities, a hypothesis" on which the War-hours on the air. Briton and an American, today agreed with the Warren Commission's conclusion of no conspiracy in the assassination of President Kennedy.

But the American urged the creation of a small, full-time commission to reexamine all evidence:

Professor Alexander Bickel, professor of law and legal his-tory at Yale University, and Lord Devlin, a former British appeals court judge, also concluded that all evidence indicated that Lee Harvey Oswald was the lone killer.

Both delivered their verdicts early today at the conclusion of an unprecedented four-hour-and-45-minute television program probing the circumstances and doubts surrounding the assassination.

An estimated 7 million British homes were tuned in to the British Broadcasting Corp. pre-sentation, which began last night and ran past midnight. Tempers of the participants flared during exchanges. They included New York lawyer Mark Lane, Philadelphia District Attorney Arlen Specter and attornew David Belin, of Des Moines, Iowa.

Both Specter and Belin were Warren Commission counselors and both back its conclusions against Lane's claims.

Lane Gets Annoyed

Lane, a critic of the Warren Commission, clashed frequently with moderator Kenneth Harris a noted BBC newsman who spent some time in the United Statees interviewing witnesses and Warren Commission members. Harris repeatedly cut off Lane in midsentence, saying that he was not keeping to the point.

"I didn't come 7,000 miles for this," Lane said bitterly at one point,

The BBC switchboard was jammed for about an hour following the program with calls eriticizing Harris for not allowing Lane ample opportunity to rebut arguments, a BBC spokesman said.

bullet" theory of Kennedy's death and argued that as long as the slightest doubt remained, "the part of wisdom would be to convene a small, full-time body to look into the evidence again."

The heart of the Warren Commission's conclusions is the "one-bullet" theory—that a sin-gie bullet entered the President's neck from behind, exited from his throat and wounded Texas Gov. John B. Connally, seated in front of Kennedy in the limousine.

Devlin said, "There is not a chie, not a thread of evidence (in the Warren report) to show who others in a conspiracy might have been. What good would it do to reopen the whole case? I don't think the public interest would be served. Let him (Kennedy) rest in peace."

Specter Explains

Specter disclosed an almost encyclopedic knowledge of the report's technical foundation, explaining such complex points as the "one-bullet hypothesis" on the events of Nov. 22, 1963. "It is important to note the difficulty of proving a negative as opposed to a positive," he said in reference to theories about deaths of witnesses and about possible conspiracies.

He was pointedly sharp at times in his rebuttals of Lane's arguments. At one point, after Lane had cited large numbers of witnesses who testified that they heard shots coming from a point other than the Texas Book Depository, Specter snapped:

This is an investigation, not an election. We didn't just count numbers. We evaluated other factors, too."

Source of Shots

In the Warren Commission's research, Specter, then an upand-coming Philadelphia attorney, was assigned to determine the source of the shots, the number of assassins, the exact manner in which the President and Gov. Connally were shot, and the exact sequence of events. He began his investigation March 16, 1964. Specter was most instrumental
