It is the only completely documented critique of the Warren Commission Report.
 It reproduces photographs from the archives which have never before been seen by the public.
 It examines the complete text of the recently declassified F. B. I. report on the Kennedy assassination... and a great deal more.

THE WARREN COMMISSION was created to answer certain crucial questions about the Kennedy assassination and Lee Harvey Oswald. In spite of the volume of material presented before the Commission, many of these questions still remain unanswered. Mark Lane asks why. Step-by-step, he examines not only the evidence brought to light by the Warren Commission, but the explosive evidence to which it gave only cursory attention. Lane offers no "assassination theory." He does expose serious and irretrievable inconsistencies in the work of the Warren Commission, as highly as these inconsistencies are small, some are frightfully large; combined, they raise insurmountable doubts about the "official version" of the assassination of John F. Kennedy.

Fascinating, disturbing, closely reasoned, and carefully documented (the author's cogent arguments are based largely on the 28 volumes of evidence issued by the Commission), RUSH TO JUDGMENT cannot be ignored. Few who read it are likely to go on seeing the official version of what happened: that Lee Harvey Oswald, a lone assassin firing three shots from the Texas Book Depository, killed President John F. Kennedy.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR
 Mark Lane has practiced criminal law in New York for more than 20 years. In 1968, Mr. Lane, together with Mr. E. J. Conroy, Senator Herbert Goldhamer, and others, founded the Reform Democratic Movement within the New York Democratic Party. Following the Kennedy assassination, Mr. Lane formed the Citizens' Committee of Inquiry and began an investigation into the facts surrounding the assassination and the murder of Lee Harvey Oswald. He personally traveled to Paris, Berlin, London, and other cities in Europe, where he testified, and has lectured widely throughout the United States and Europe.
