With all credit due Garrison, and giving him enough is hardly possible, this is not his "discovery" but is work done for me by Al Chapman, of Dallas, and reported by me to Garrison in August 1967. It is in pursuance of a theory first advanced by Mrs. Lillian Castellano, of Hollywood, who now has my extensive collection of all the public-convenience charts, of which the sewers are but part, of all of Dealey Plaza, before and after its rebuilding. I showed these pictures on this station. It is not "a very large pipe" that ends on the grassy knoll, but the smallest of all in that area, where others run up to 30 inches.
