

Dear Paul,,

4/30/91

Apparently the student recorded the fax number incorrectly. Moreover, the college would not let her use the machine which is, supposedly, only for college business. So, when she could not fax the pages you want at one she phoned me, I got the book and drove into town, had the pages enlarged to letter size, and they could not ring through on the number, after many efforts, the most recent a few minutes ago, about an hour after the first effort. The number the student wrote is 213/858-7522.

I'm sorry I did not take your number when you offered it but we make few toll calls because our resources and income are limited and we are at the age where we can run into major expenses not covered by Medicare or insurance. But for the future I'd better have it because it is unlisted. I did get a number for Paul Schrade, 656-5623, got a recorded announcement I could not make out, and left a message when I got the signal.

In any event, I have a clear xerox, one is at the place that does our large xeroxing jobs and has a fax, and I'll get the clear copy I have in the mail this evening. In the event I am not called by one of you first.

In the event you get some flack over JFK autopsy photos being sold commercially, as they are, this is because the Secret Service photographer who did the printing made himself some copies and then gave them or copies from them to at least one other person. I have been told that the Powers used so much by Lifton sold them for $50 each. I am also told that they are being offered by Hawkins, of the Collectors Archive, in Quebec. But whatever is being sold could be sold only because the Secret Service behaved improperly.

So far as pictures of JFK's clothing is concerned, the Commission published them and the Archives sold me color prints of at least some and black-and-whites of others that were placed into evidence by the Commission.

The copy I used in Post Mortem was from either of two sources: provided by the Department of Justice in a lawsuit brought by Jim Garrison in the District of Columbia courts, not federal, or by the Archives. I've forgotten which. It was made public both times, by the government.

The copies I made for Jim Mesar were made from a large series of such records disclosed to me by the Criminal Division of the Department of Justice. Having been disclosed should any copies be required from that source, they should be readily available. No FOIA processings would be required. All they'd have to do is go to the DJ file number on those copies.

If Helen wrote the number incorrectly as I repeated it to her, I'm sorry, as I am about the delay.

Of course I still hope to hear by phone from one of you, from you because it was not faxed and from Schrade in response to the message I left on his machine.

Best wishes,
