

Harrison Edward Livingstone
3025 Abell Avenue
Baltimore, Md. 21218

January 6, 1990

Dear Harold:

Sorry you missed my Channel Two half hour last night, as it was one of my better efforts.

Enclosed are some of the papers, as promised, including the FBI report Rick gave me from your basement. The report mentions various letters which are not in the enclosed.

They got a lot of money out of me. So did the Dallas Center, so did Robert, so did the film producer Berkley sent. About $30,000 went down that way, which could have reissued your work, which I hope to do.

"The Cry of the Invisible" is about to go to the typesetter, and I hope I can get that money back.

What I nightmare I have lived. But things are quâât now, and I have got some rest.

HIGH TRFASON reached No. 2 on the NY Times best seller list. To hell with the W. Post.

So, I will try to write another book and do better.
Anyway, God bless.

Sincerely,

P.S. Can you send me a copy of Dr. Jahres (sp?) letter, the pathologist in Sweden. Did he see the pãctures he says were taken at Parkland?

The Cry of the Invisible

Edited by Michael A. Susko

Writings from the Homeless and Survivors of Psychiatric Hospitals

A HARRISON EDWARD LIVINGSTONE BOOK by the
CONSERVATORY PRESS
Baltimore Montréal