Dear Mrs. Loeb,

My first book, with which you and Bill were so helpful, is one of five selections from which have just been published and of which a copy herewith.

How far a cry from more than 100 publishers internationally rejecting it without a single adverse editorial comment!

And how important ~~is~~ it ~~is~~ was that Bill persuaded Tommy Crowell at Markle to ~~publish~~ ^{print} it - when I could not pay for ~~it~~ it!

If you do not remember, Bill even had two different lawyers give it a libel reading.

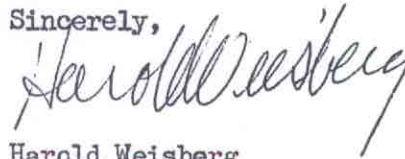

And when I spoke at the University of Vermont at Burlington had one of you reporters ^{interview} me.

He even phoned to see how I was making out when you were on a skiing vacation in Nevada and gave me the phone number in the event he could be of more help.

I remember so much so well and appreciate it more than I can convey, I think.

Many thanks.

Sincerely,

Harold Weisberg

Two more books due this year.

I've often wondered if Bill assured Crowell against loss.

I offered a mortgage on our farm. He declined it.
