Dear Mike,

By now you and Chuck should have caught up of your sleep!

The evening after you were here a crew from Australian TV was. When I told them about the Katzenbach memo they wanted a copy. It was not in the folder in which I keep it and from which you made some copies. If you took it by accident I'd appreciate its return because I can make better copies from it than from copies made from it. I can get a copy from Lardner, for example. Fortunately, because the DJ serial number was not included and thus retrieval from what I got under FOIA would be a real job.

As I had it, this DJ copy was stapled to the holograph and the FBI copy and I'd added a few purple marks on the side. This is so you can distinguish it from any copy you made from it. I had already made a copy for you.

If by any chance you have more than one copy of any record the probability is that by accident you took my "original." These copies I keep on my desk are not literally originals. I keep them as I got them but where I can retrieve the actual originals it takes time and I am limited in my access to and use of these actual originals.

I hope your shows were well received, as I think they should have been.

If any was picked up I have seen nothing in the Wx Postcard when I spoke to Lardner yesterday he had not mentioned any wire copy routed to him.

"Inside Edition," with which my one experience was too much, aired a show^s several days ago quoting a former HSCA staff member as saying that the CIA had 9 to 11 informers on Garrison. I did not see this. What I say is what I was told. It was aired locally the afternoon of the 48 Hours show.

Personally, without any records to support my opinion, I believe that "informers" is the wrong word. More likely "sources" is true and unexaggerated. I know the FBI had a couple.

Thanks and best to you all,
