Dear Gary,

Belatedly I've decided to do a manuscript on the Donahue/Meminger Mortal Error. I find that my recollection of two movies is not as clear as I'd like it to be for accurate writing. They are the Zapruder and Bronson films. It is my recollection that as of the time of the fatal shot the Bronson film shows that Hickey does not have the AR-15 up and is not standing himself. If this is correct I'd like to know as I'd also like any details you can add on Hickey. As I recall the Zapruder film, as the motorcade ^{heads} ~~bees~~ toward the underpass and relatively some time after the shooting is the first time Hickey can be seen with that rifle. I think also but ~~am~~ far from sure it also shows him standing before the end. If you can confirm, correct or add I'll appreciate it.

This business of those films I've not seen for so long (I gave my Z's to Hood long ago) reminds me: you said you were going to send me a book your archive had had done on the pictures. If you sent it, it never came. Was it by Trask? I remember clearly only that you said you'd send it.

Hope you get a chance to get up this way and that I can introduce you to Jerry McKnight who heads the history dept. at Hood and will be in charge of the archive other than the librarian.

If you speak to anyone I know, please extend my best. Particularly if you speak to Mary. I do not know what this particular trouble is but I heard that she has started to do a little walking.

Thanks and best,

Hardy
