Dear Mr. Weisberg,

It seems we have a mutual friend. Her name is Anna-Marie Kuhns-Walko. I met her a few months ago via E-mail. She's a lovely lady and I hope to meet her in person one day. She mentioned that you were a bit under the weather during the recent COPA conference. I do hope that this letter finds you fully recovered and well.

I am going to enclose a copy of my article on the acoustical evidence. I would greatly appreciate any comments you might make. Feel free to correct me in any area that I may have erred. I'm still a novice at writing on the assassination, even though I have been studying for over eight years. I put aside writing fiction so that I could one day pursue some answers to the Kennedy Assassination. Maybe someday I can return to it. Like many other writers, I don't like to write and only do it when what I have to say starts to keep me up nights.

As you will see, I stayed with, for the most part, what the HSCA gave us in their report. I do believe that there were more than four shots during the assassination, and that had the acoustical team wanted to they could have found them. However, I wanted to show the complete contempt and disregard that the powers that be hold for scientific fact. In this case critics of the acoustical data regarding that knoll shot. Acoustical fingerprints are unique! N-waves are not caused naturally (except by a bolt of lightning). So for the purposes of this paper I only dealt with the HSCA research and efforts to refute their basic findings.

I am currently working on a paper on the Magic Bullet Theory in which I will deal with the points you make in your letter. In fact Anna-Marie said she'd try to get me a copy of the report on the Aberdeen tests. I'm also using the documentary "Reasonable Doubt" in which you are interviewed as source material.

Please let me know what you think. Even if I'm totally off base, I can only learn by honest criticism...and I intend to learn and improve. One day I will do a book dealing with the scientific certainty of a conspiracy in the assassination. Hopefully it will be so good that no one will want to publish it!!

As always, I will continue to send along anything relating to you and your work for your files. (even though so much of what I read on America Online borders on fantasy.) Once again, let me send my hopes that you are well and enjoy continued good health.

All My Best,
