Dear John,

Please excuse my not thanking you for the nice card. I've been pushing to do all the writing I can before anything happened and we've been a bit messed up for a couple of weeks. But maybe you've been in Timbuktoo or at Lake Baikal and would not have gotten what I sent anyway.

The mess came from a furnace blowback. It took a professional cleaning company two weeks to clean us up.

Wrone has retyped all but the last four chapters of the draft of the very long book. He is also posting corrections on what he retyped. It will go a little slower with classes resumed now. But it is closer to being all retyped. And legible!

I'm ~~maxx~~ a little bit anxious now. I learned day before yesterday that I have to be hospitalized for an intestinal polyp possibility and, with the copier just zonked out, no more trying to write today.

If there is anything new on the disclosure of records under the new law I've not heard it.

We hope all is going well with you and that we see you soon.

Best wishes,

Harold Weisberg
