Mr. George Cumringham, A.A. Senator George McGovern Senate Office Bldg. Mashington, B.C.

Dear Mr. Cumingham,

Security Company of the Company of t

In heste in writing you earlier about George Meany's part in intelligence and diplomatic activities of a cold-war mature, I think I forgot to mention the man in apparent's overall command, the policy advisor in these matters, former Communist Jay Lovestone.

By codneidence we dined with old friends who had just returned from more than a year out of the country while the TV news was on last night. Our host, Leon work, chuckled at an account of the Meany position, he won't vote for precident.

How strange it is, he said, that weerge Meany now says don't vote when he spent at least a million dollars and much time over a period of years telling everybody to be sure hobb knows. As he said last night and as I know, much of this knowy passed through his hands. Until his retirement several years ago he recorded, duplicated and distributed these messages for the AFL-CTO. Lock founded and operated and owned Sound Studios, first on Vermont Ave., IN, just below homes Circle, later from a property rented from the late Commelia Pinchot closer to Capitol Hill, on 6th St, MW, just above C.

There was also a personal relationship between the Loebs and meanys. I met members of the Meany family at the Loeb farm, near mine, and know of other visits each way. This includes the moots' regular attendance at the AFL-CIO Mismi mostlings. I am protty cortain

I have no knowledge how much the AFL-CIO under Fleany spent in telling everyone to vote and how to vote, but it must have been considerable of the working-people's money over the years, judging from the amount of work of this nature Loeb alone did.

And now he is telling everyone not to vote for President.

No need to take time to respond. This is merely for your information, should it later be of interest.

Sincerely,

Harold Weisburg
