

Dear Dal,

5/25/95

The young woman who re-typed the Senator Russell article finally got the disks to me. In addition to the Word Perfect 5.1 marked on it she wrote it "should be compatible with most computer programs" and that you "should be able to translate it into MacIntosh format."

The copies of the one printout I had have not yet been returned so I do not have them to send. This can go faster so here it is.

But if you cannot get this printed out I'll have the xerox to send.

I had hoped to have a press conference at the AARC office with Jim Lesar, who was my lawyer in all those lawsuits; Chip Selby who interviewed Dolce at my suggestion, as you'll see in NEVER AGAIN!; and if possible Dave Wrone and a radiologist who has done some good work on the autopsy X-rays substituting for me but among the problems I still face is no response from the publisher to my requests for books to give the press!

For Wrone to be part of it it would have to be in about 7 days, maybe 8, because he'll be in Washington for the AARC board conference on the 3rd.

He'll visit us then and we do look forward to that.

But if again I'll have to fight the publisher to be able to promote the book I think I'll just let it do what it can do. Stupidly and without talking to me they omitted the subtitle. By the time I knew that the cover was made. I did get them to add it to the title page but it is not the title page that catches the browser's eye.

I keep getting reports on the unavailability of the book, widespread, but Wrone reports that the major bookstore they deal with in Madison, state capitol and much better for shopping, sold it out immediately and had to reorder immediately. Yet in Dallas, seven bookstore with which a ~~friend~~ friend has dealt for years buying everything on the ~~assassination~~ ^{assassination}, not one had it. I've had only a few reactions, from professional scholars who are assassination scholars. They like it much.

I've making good time on Hailer's Tales, Of the JFK Assassination, close to 100,000 words on paper, I think.

Had a mishap that has taken some time and is a bit of a nuisance. My knee and thigh gave out as I was going down a single step to the sidewalk and I fell. It looks worse than it is and I was lucky not to break any bones, especially not a hip. The doctor has me wrapped with three elastic bandages, Ace (the best-known brand here, over-top of a thick gauze wrap that is overtop of a non-stick adhesive patches as large as 3 inches, where the skin peeled back that much. Three of them, with those adhesive wraps 4 inches wide and taking up more area than that on a knee and an arm. But I can take them off morning after tomorrow. He thought I'd broken a foot but the X-rays say not... Hope you have no trouble printing out. Our best,

Harold
