

5/24/70

Dear Sylvia,

Hearty thanks for 5/20. Glad your recovery was so prompt. Fortunately, that epidemic has not hit this area, besides which we live in semi-isolation.

No doubt about it, Paul is great.

Suits: I've laid the basis for not fewer than five more. The immediate problem is drafting them, for Bud cannot act as my attorney in them. The largest and most complicated will be on the panel material, which I've carried much farther than reflected in PMIII - which ought to be enough in itself.

I've not yet seen Sprague's article. The accounts sicken me. He failed to answer my inquiries about the "About six confessions". I have checked some of his basic work and it is spurious, a combination of wishful thinking and no inquiry at all - as with tramps. He means so well and does so wrong. He did not work through Bud and the accounts of Bud's financing are denied by Bud, who says little but appears less than happy about that piece. I shudder in anticipation of it. I also asked Sprague how the computer was fed, thinking, but not telling him, "garbage in, garbage out".

What even Garrison long ago abandoned is vibrant and real to Dick. Need I say more?

And can't you imagine those 50 extra conspirators all just hanging around waiting for a piece of the action, or to observe it. He still clings to that fakery with all the earmarks of officialdom, "Farewell America", being of a disposition to make a reality of its original title "America Burns".

Hurriedly,