um Sales Ina

GENERAL OFFICES - 19200 S. Western Ave., Turrance. California DISTRICT OFFICE - 1001 Connecticut Aravas, Washington 6, D. C. DEpublic 7-4366

REPLY TO DISTRICT OFFICE 20734

November 18, 4965

Deer Mr. Miller,

Aliminera Excusion:

Nod 122 Sqi9

Fubing Forgings

It was kind of you to interrupt your own busy life to answer my letter and to give a little thought to what I face.

I suppose that in part what I had in mind was the hope that among those few members of the intellectual community in our country increasinght heremake who have had the courage to speak out against the evil they see there might be some not already too busy and yet willing to interest themsleves in the situation of my book for two major reasons: it documents the dishonesty of the government when it wants to misinform the poeple, and it reises a different aspect of freedom of the press.

Public opinion is formed by information. When that information coming from the government is false, as, for example, most of what is being said today about foreign policy, the basis of a democratic society is corrupted. Government propaganda becomes a vehicle for perpetuating wrong policies. Few among the citizens haven the time or capacity to analyze for themselves what they are told, and even fewer among the press have the disposition to do so. In time the government and the people - today the world - become the creatures of this monster.

With foreign policy, with allegedly factual reports of events and battles, the long continuity of this policy and these events together with their complexity and our personal detechment from them make it difficult if not impossible for the truth to emerge.

But with the investigation of the assassination of a President, with the printed words comprehensible and at hand, it is quite possible to show, as I did, that the government was willing to lie, that it did lie, and there was no accident in it. One of the major publishers who read, preised and rejected my book told me that if it had been less indisputable they would have been more willing to print it. In short, I am suggesting that my book accomplishes in part what you and others are seeking to do with your protests (with which I am in entire accord and more, plan several books on which I have done a considerable part of the research).

And what becomes of freedom of the press if publishers do what the Constitution prevents the government from doing? Who is spreading the misinformation that makes wrong policies acceptable to at least a very large part of the electorate? The government can initiate it, but the press spreads it, persuades with it and, in effect, has become an egent of the government in so doing.

All Agreements are Contingent upon Strikes, Archients and Other Delays Unevoidable or Beyond Our Control. Quotations are Subject to Channe Without Horica and are Subject to Hervey Standard Terms, Conditions and Mill Standard Teleances. 2

Rad Bar Pipe

Aluminum Extrusions

which What press freedom have we when a book that the publishers themselves describe in all the terms normally associated with publishability and add even such frequently considerations as Festionsibility and importance, in both of which they rate it high, and still will not print it? Not one of the three dozen has given an editorial reason.

For example, Braziller, who you suggested. Because I respect this house I ask you to keep this in confidence. I phnoed and spoke to Edwin Seever. I told him the history of the book. I said I would like to submit it if it would not be confronted by the same policy decision rather than an editorial decision. The book was read and approved by the editors in Mr. Braziller's absence. It was at this house in competition with one by Leo Sauvage. After Mr. Braziller's return both books were rejected. Mr. Seaver wrote me, " I presonally think you have quite a book here, and I have a hunch that somebody else will be publishing it and that it will make quite a stir."

The George that three dozen publishers think should tackle this taboo subject has not showed up. I am continuing to look for him and regardless of what it costs will continue to. To give you an idea of the cost, my wife and I have about 7,000 hours in this book. On just trips to New York, in the past nine months I have driven the equivalent of more than half way around the world at the equator.

I have taken the time to write you, even if in too much haste after my return from the most recent trip (where I again gound editors interested and left copies with them), because Ibbelieve you might be interested in the facts. I spologize for the additional imposition on your time.

While I doubt very much if the book will be printed on your rteurn, should you be interested in reading it, I'll be happy to provide a copy. If you have any other suggestion, I'd certainly welcome them.

Sincerely yours,

Harold Weisberg

All Agreements are Contingent upon Strikes, Accidents and Other Gelays Unevoidable or Reyond Our Control. Quatelons pro Subject to Change Without Notice and are Subject to Harvey Standard Turms, Conditions and Will Standard Totrances.