PACIFISTS DEMONSTRATE IN PENTAGON

Never before had any type of picketing or demonstration been allowed at the Pentagon until Secretary of Defense, Robert McNamara officially allowed 200 "peaceniks" to swarm over, through and around that important center of our national defense.

An official memorandum by the Defense Department was circulated to all Pentagon personnel which stated that the demonstrators were "free to use any public areas of the Pentagon and surrounding ground for their activities."

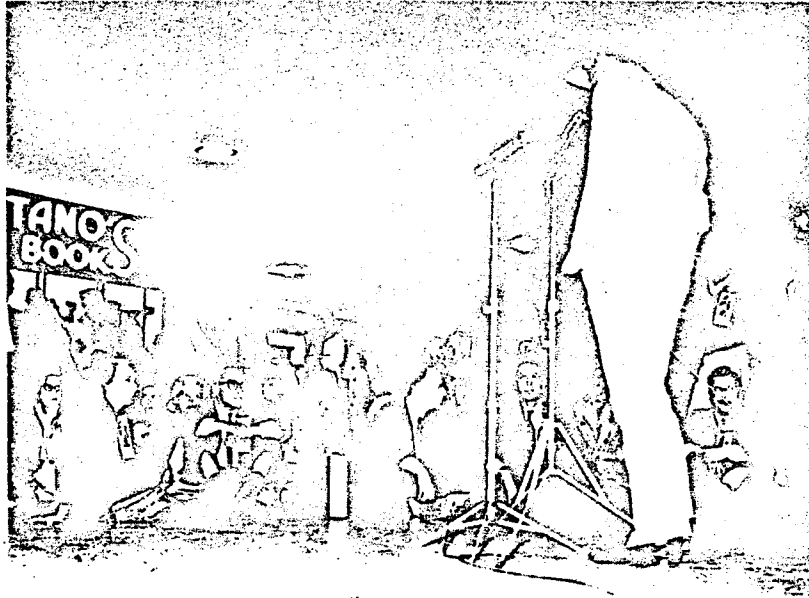

A series of speakers recently talked for six hours demanding withdrawal of United States forces from Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic. Demonstrators swarmed through the building for two days. One of the left-wing organizations taking part in these demonstrations (Committee for Non-Violent Action) claimed they gave out more than 50,000 copies of five different pamphlets.

Robert McNamara met personally for a half an hour with a delegation of five demonstrators. These included A. J. Muste, a well known communist fronter; Staughton Lynd, Professor of History from Yale; former Congressman William H. Meyer; writer Sidney Lens, and Mary Christiansen. Mary Christiansen's husband, Gordon Christiansen is a professor of chemistry at Connecticut College. Among other speakers were William C. Davidson of Haverford College and George Collier of Rutgers.

It is a sad commentary on the state of our government when pro-communist demonstrations are allowed in the principal headquarters of our military forces. That the secretary of defense would spend his time talking to such riff-raff speaks for itself.

SILVER COINS SOON UNAVAILABLE

Nearly 18 months ago we predicted that our government would begin to circulate non-silver dimes, quarters and half dollars during the pre Christmas shopping season of 1965. This prediction will come true according to a recent announcement by the Treasury Department.

Every retail businessman and most conservatives realize that half dollars are extremely scarce at the present time. According to official announcement the coin shortage is due to the great demands of the vending machines. The trouble with this claim is that few vending machines use half dollars. The obvious reason is that the government has been taking half dollars out of circulation for quite some time. Quarters and dimes will go quickly when the new debased coins become available.

President Johnson has stated that there would be no profit in the hoarding of silver coins because the government had a large amount of silver which it would continue to sell to keep the price down. The truth is that industrial uses of silver far exceed the free world production of this metal. A dime is always going to be worth a dime and it may soon be worth a dollar.

We hope that conservatives will have the foresight and opportunity to exchange whatever worthless paper money they may have into silver while the opportunity still exists.

WORLD MONETARY SYSTEM PROPOSED

Another prediction made about two years ago in On Target was the proposed creation of an international currency.

Recently, Henry H. Fowler, Secretary of the Treasury, announced that the leading nations of the world have agreed to begin negotiating such a system.

Basically, this plan called for most or all of the different nations of the world to pool their gold reserve. This common gold reserve would then serve as backing for a new paper money which would be used in all financial transactions between the governments of the world. Only mutual agreement would limit the amount of paper money that could be printed.

As we pointed out previously the entire scheme would serve as a conveniently camouflaged method of sending the tangible wealth of United States to other countries who would pay us with an inexhaustible supply of worthless paper.

This world monetary fund is the ultimate step in a long series of unconstitutional acts which began with the creation of the Federal Reserve System. Over the years this planned debasement of our currency has had but one objective and one effect-- the gradual destruction of the free enterprise economic system.

A socialist police state government will be the ultimate and inevitable result. There is no use protesting or hoping that the American people will protest. We're many years too late for that.

RIOTS SCHEDULED FOR OCTOBER 15TH

A quickly put together association of communist front groups and fellow travelers has produced an organization called the Viet Nam Day Committee. This group is coordinating plans for "world wide civil disobedience" on October 15th and 16th. Their plans seem to be developing rapidly among left-wing student organizations and pacifist groups. Whether or not those organizations primarily interested in racial agitation will go along has not yet been determined.

A conference of "Viet Nam Protesters" was held Sept. 14-18 at Ann Arbor, Michigan. The meeting was sponsored by the Inter-University Committee for Debate on Foreign Policy and the Michigan Faculty-Student Committee to Stop the War in Viet Nam, along with the University of Michigan Office of Religious Affairs and the Universities Committee for Problems of War and Peace.

The following college professors and instructors make up the National Board of Directors of the Inter-University Committee for Debate on Foreign Policy:

David F. Aberle, Anthropology Department, University of Oregon. Resigned from Brandeis University after an "academic freedom" dispute. His wife has publicly declared herself to be a Castroite.

Robert S. Browne, Economics Department, Fairleigh Dickinson University, New Jersey. He has been a participant in several "teach-in" demonstrations and is frequently mentioned in the communist Worker.

Robert Buckhout, assistant professor of psychology, Washington University, St. Louis, Missouri. He is secretary of the Ad Hoc Committee on Foreign Policy.

Noam Chomsky, linguistics, Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Has signed petitions to abolish the House Committee on Un-American Activities and clemency petition for communists Carl Braden and Frank Wilkinson. He was one of the signers of an open letter to President Kennedy protesting United States blockade of Cuba.

Barry Commoner, Chairman of the Botany Department, Washington University, St. Louis, Missouri. Signer of the Linus Pauling petition to ban atomic tests, active in the Methodist Federation for Social Action which is a cited communist front.

William C. Davidson, Physics Department chairman, Haverford College, Penna. In 1962 Davidson led a two day peace march in Chicago. Was a protestor against invasion of Cuba. Is a sponsor of the communist front, National Committee to Abolish the House Un-American Activities Committee. Served as a member of the board of Sane, etc.

Stanley C. Diamond, anthropology, Syracuse University. In the October 24th 1964 issue of the communist, National Guardian, Diamond signed an ad asking for contributions to defeat Goldwaterism. Active in other pro-communist organizations.

Douglas Dowd, associate professor of economics at Cornell University. Has been a speaker on Socialism and Civil Rights at a meeting sponsored by the communist organized DuBois Club. Has signed petitions for clemency of communists and for abolition of the HCUA.

Charles A. Drekmeier, associate professor of political science, Stanford University. Is Co-chairman of the Stanford Viet Nam Day Committee. Was a supporter of the University of California's free speech rebels. Demanded an investigation of police brutality after the 1960 anti-HCUA riots in San Francisco.

William Gamson, associate professor of sociology, University of Michigan. Gamson was a 1964 sponsor of the Universities Committee on the Problems of War and Peace. He was quoted in August 15th, 1965 communist Worker as comparing the bombing of Vietnamese Communist stronghold by United States planes to the bombing of England by Hitler.

Father Gerard F. Grant, professor of philosophy at Loyola University, Chicago. In 1963 Father Grant was among persons mentioned by the communist, Worker as demanding that President Kennedy sign a test ban with the Soviet Union. Last May he took a very vocal part in the anti-HCUA activities during the committee's hearings in Chicago.

Irving Howe, professor of English, Hunter College, New York. He is editor of the Socialist quarterly Dissent. He sponsored a 1962 conference on "The Impact of the Radical Right" and was a 1964 sponsor of the pro-communist Ad Hoc Committee on the Triple Revolution.

Anatol Rapoport, professor and senior research mathematician, Mental Health Research Institute, University of Michigan. Rapoport was one of the promoters of the 1962 Disarmament Conference held at the University of Michigan. He is a sponsor of the Committee to secure Justice for Morton Sobell (convicted communist spy) and held a recent "teach-in" protesting United States intervention in Viet Nam.

Marshall Sahlins, professor of anthropology, University of Michigan, an outspoken critic of anti-communists.

Michael Shub, University of California student who was arrested during the Berkeley free speech riots.

Stephen Smale, Mathematics professor, University of California formerly active in the communist-front Labor Youth League and faculty adviser for the Fair Play for Cuba Committee. Now co-founder of the Viet Nam Day Committee.

Benjamin Spock, M.D. Faculty member at Western Reserve University, Cleveland. Dr. Spock is best known as the pediatrician who has set himself up as an all knowing authority as to how American mothers should raise their children (with disastrous results). He is co-chairman of the committee for a Sane Nuclear policy. He was a 1963 sponsor of Japanese Communist Kaoru Yasui's peace tour which was arranged by the Communist National Guardian.

Richard Strohman, associate professor of Zoology, University of California. Strohman was a recent host at a benefit party for Vietnamese Reds held in his home last July. He is a member of the Berkeley Faculty Peace Committee.

William Appleman Williams, professor of History, University of Wisconsin. A 1957 report by the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee lists Williams as a contributor to the communist publication, Science and Society. He has sponsored many other communist activities and was an active speaker at various anti-American "teach-ins" at the University of Wisconsin and elsewhere.

Mary White, Asian studies, Yale University. She was an active supporter of Red China during her stay at Stanford University in the 1950's. She has taken part in a panel discussion sponsored by the left-wing American Friends Service Committee, and she is frequently mentioned with favor in the communist Worker.

Marshall Windmiller, associate professor of International Relations, San Francisco State College. He signed an invitation with other pro-communists to hold an organizational meeting against the House Committee on Un-American Activities which was sponsored in 1960 by the East Bay Community Forum (a cited communist front). He is sponsor of the National Committee to Abolish the House Committee on Un-American Activities and signed the clemency petitions for identified communists, Carl Braden and Frank Wilkinson.

We're told that Bayard Rustin (left) accompanied M. L. King (right) when he conferred with U.N. Secretary Arthur Goldberg on U.S. policy in Viet Nam. Rustin (a convicted sex pervert and draft dodger) was King's secretary for several years. A picture of King attending the Highlander Communist Training School was published in a past issue of On Target. King denies that he has any connection with the school but a recent letterhead of the school identifies him as one of the directors.

COMMUNISM ☩

How much longer will the American people stand idly by while their constitutional rights and freedoms are bartered away through secret treaties and United Nations commitments made without their knowledge or consent?
