Mitchell Blocks Indictments, Federal Grand Jury Alleges

By John Hanrahan Washington Post Staff Writer

BALTIMORE, May 28-A federal grand jury investigating high public officials charged today that Attorney þ General John N. Mitchell perh sonally is blocking it from returning indictments in a mat- Mitchell to inform the court S ter it has been probing for 10

C months. Mitchell said the matter is 0 being held up for additional 9 study. 1 The special grand 'jury, t investigating allegations involving public officials and tors." the contract for the under-the House of Representatives, give the go-ahead to sign the took its annual action in indictment before July 5. court today when it submitted a sealed presentment containing a draft indictment to Chief Judge Roszel C. Thomsen of the U.S. District Court.

Judge Thomsen instructed within one week whether the sealed draft indictment should be kept secret or made public. Thomsen said he would give his decision on making the presentment public after hearwhich is known to have been ing from Mitchell and after "considering all relevant fac-

The grand jury also asked ground parking garages for that the Justice Department

3

The underground parking garage investigation has never been confirmed by U.S. Attorney Stephen H. Sachs, who led the probe, or by the Justice Department. It was first reported in The Washington Post last summer.

Among the names that have been linked to that inquiry are those of former Sen. Daniel B. Brewster (D - Md.), already under indictment on an unren lated bribery charge; Nathan b Voloshen, a friend of House to Speaker John W. McCormack C and a longtime Washington c

See JURY, A20, Col. 4

e

JURY, From A1

lobbyist who also is already under indictment, in Maryland and New York, on charges of using the speaker's office for influence peddling, and Victor J. Frenkil, a prominent Maryland Democrat and president of Baltimore Contractors Inc., prime contractor for the underground garages.

In April, the Justice Department rejected Sachs' recommendation that Sen. Russell B. Long (D-La.) be indicted in connection with the underground garages case.

Others Believed Involved

Other prominent figures also are believed to be involved in the investigation, which concerns allegations that money was offered in exchange for political pressure on the Capitol architect's office to get approval for about $5 million in extra payments sought by Frenkil.

Thomsen did not comment on the grand jury's request that the Justice Department draw and sign before July 5 an indictment containing "formal charges identical or substantially similar to the draft indictment." Court officers said Thomsen has no authority to command the Justice Department to sign an indictment.

Sachs, who directed the special grand jury and concurred in its action today, told reporters that he met with Mitchell as recently as Tuesday but was unable to get his permission to proceed with the indictment

To proceed without Mitchell's permission on what Sachs termed "obviously an important matter" would have been "an act of irresponsibility," Sachs said. Neither Sachs nor Mitchell would comment as to the contents of the sealed presentation or the reason for their dispute over the proposed indictment.

Response Promised

Mitchell said yesterday the Justice Department would respond to Judge Thomsen within the week allotted, but he would not comment as to whether he felt the presentment should be made public. As to the reason for opposing the grand jury's desire to indict, he said:

"This matter was reviewed by the professional staff and criminal division, which raised some question about the nature of the case. In view of the questions, the staff asked that case again and asked that it heard from the Justice Depart- il's) case" with the govern- tion for indicting Long came also be reviewed by the incom- ment within a week. city Democratic U.S. attorney. public or should be kept seby George Beall, a Republi- are arguments in favor of can.

jury's action today is appar-secret." ently without precedent in the Fourth Federal Appellate Dis-special grand jury until June trict. The legal basis for the 10 at 10 a.m. Sachs' only comaction. Sachs said, is in the ment in court was that he con-Fifth Amendment to the U.S. firmed Taylors' statements Constitution, which says, in and acknowledged that he suppart, that no one "shall be ported the panel in its action." held to answer for a capital or other infamous crime unless ings, Sachs told reporters that on a presentment or indict- he was "aware, and have been ment of a grand jury . . ."

under a presentment, Sachs speculation with regard to said. A presentment, he said, matters which the grand jury is a formal statement by the has before it. I am in no way, grand jury that it has heard shape or form confirming or evidence it believes justifies denying the accuracy of these an indictment.

Signature Essential

Taylor, deputy foreman of the wishes to return." special grand jury that has special grand jury that has been sitting for 17 months, the draft indictment involved t told Judge "based upon the evidence re-derground garages, Sachs said,] turned to me, the grand jury "I'm not going to take the is prepared to return an in-bait." dictment charging certain defendants with violations of the denied any wrongdoing in law of the United States in this district."

However, Taylor said, Sachs had informed the panel that Mitchell "has so far refused to authorize him to sign the indictment we believe to be appropriate." Without the signature, Taylor noted, the indictment would be "of no effect."

As a result, Taylor said, "we now exercise our power to return a presentment to this court, based on the investigation we have conducted during our term, and request that charges identical or substantially similar to the draft indictment we are now presenting to the court . . . be drawn and signed by appropriate officials of the Department of Justice . . ."

Haste Is Urged

Taylor said the grand jury was requesting that the charges be drawn and signed "as soon as possible in view of the fact that our term as a grand jury expires 18 months from Jan. 5, 1969."

After a recess to study the sealed presentment, Thomsen returned to the bench to announce that he was ordering the document locked in the making it public and argu-Sachs said that the grand ments in favor of keeping it

Thomsen then dismissed the

After today's court proceedsince early last fall, that there A person cannot be tried has been a great deal of press reports and would say that it would be a mistake to speculate on the nature of the in-In court today, Warren dictments that the grand jury

Thomsen that, the contract for the House un-

Sen. Long has consistently connection with the allegations, but acknowledged he asked his administrative assistant, Robert Hunter, "to ŝų,

it be allowed to review the court clerk's safe until he has help plead the man's (Frenk-rejection of the recommendament on the contract.

that almost $5 million claim for ex- dictments. tras on the original $11.7 milin Illinois.

Rejected in April indict Long and others went information that led to Brewto the Justice Department in ster's indictment in Washing-The departments' ton. March.

Last August, The Post first for other indictments in ing U.S. attorney." Friday is "I know of no clear, binding Last August, The Post first for other indictments in reported that sachs' office connection with the garages Sachs, the last remaining big- presentment should be made was investigating allegations were left pending. In this and Long and Brewster other politically touchy cases, He will be replaced Monday cret," Thomsen said. "There agreed to exert pressures to the Justice Department reobtain approval for Frenkil's quires its approval of any in-

The grand jury sitting today lion contract. The claim has previously had indicted a fornot yet been settled and is mer top Post Office Departunder review by a consultant ment official, Joseph P. Doherty, on bribery charges related to the awarding of postal Sachs' recommendation to contracts, and developed the

1. 清泉

T