

San Cobras
Life Cycle

State of East Boston
The City
Of the Nations

Special
Argosy's 1977 Car Preview

Upper left: Jack Ruby as he is about to shoot Lee Harvey Oswald.
Left: Marina Oswald
Above: President John F. Kennedy lays slumped down in the back seat of the car after being shot. His wife leans over him and a secret service agent stands on the bumper.

WIDE WORLD PHOTOS

(NO FACIAL DETAILS IN PICTURE IN MAGAZINE EITHER)

This is the conclusion of a two-part series dealing with another theory on John Kennedy's assassination, "The Conspiracy Behind JFK's Slaying." In part one, we mentioned that discussions about the assassination of President Kennedy were held after the John Birch Society's regular meetings.

To be totally fair in our reporting, we have contacted the John Birch Society and a spokesman for them has assured us that the Society had nothing to do with these discussions of the Kennedy kill plan in any way, shape or form.

Harry Dean's 26th of July Movement Membership Card.

JFK EXCLUSIVE: OSWALD WAS U.S. AGENT!

Ex-CIA agent Harry Dean: "Oswald never fired a single shot at John Kennedy. He was definitely an undercover agent working for the United States."
By W.R. Morris

Questions about the mysterious life of Lee Harvey Oswald still hum in the halls of history like an angry swarm of bees. And the never ending drone keeps the world engaged in a guessing game about the real facts connected with the death of John F. Kennedy.

Was Oswald the lone gunman in Dallas on November 22, 1963? Was he part of a conspiracy? Was he a communist? Did he know Jack Ruby? Was he a secret agent for the US Government?

The questions, like an eternal waterfall, never end. And up until now, no one seemed to have the right answers.

Harry Dean, a former FBI-CIA agent, contends that he has the answers to all the major questions regarding Oswald's involvement in the slaying of John Kennedy.

Dean says he can put all the pieces of the Lee Harvey Oswald jigsaw puzzle together and now has a clear picture of the once hazy background of the accused presidential assassin.

"Lee Oswald was definitely an undercover agent working for the United States. According to many reliable sources, Mr. Oswald knew Jack Ruby," Dean said.

"Oswald never fired a single shot at John Kennedy. Oswald was not a communist, but instead he was a loyal American. He was framed by a congressman and an army general. Both the congressman and the general masterminded the John Kennedy murder," Dean added.

The ex-agent said the congressman and the general set Lee Harvey Oswald up after they were convinced that he was a communist.

Dean said both the FBI and the Secret Service had investigated Oswald before Kennedy was slain.

"Yet, after the assassination, an FBI agent in Dallas, who knew Oswald worked at the Book Depository, said he didn't take any action because he felt that Oswald was not of the character that would kill a president," Dean emphasized.

"This seems very strange. Here was a man who had been accused of trying to murder a leading figure. Here was a man who was supposed to have a communist background. Why wouldn't he be considered a security risk and a threat to the president of the United States?

"The answer is simple," Dean added. "The FBI knew that Lee Harvey Oswald was a government agent and that he was not a potential assassin."

According to information provided by another CIA agent, who has asked that his identity be kept secret, Oswald's first undercover role was performed while he was in the United States Marine Corps.

Shortly after Lee Harvey Oswald joined the Marines, he was stationed at the U.S. Naval Base in Atsugi, Japan. This base was one of the most important military installations operated by the American Armed Forces. It was from this base that the highly secretive U-2 spy planes were flown.

Oswald was among the carefully screened Marine technicians to serve at Atsugi. He had full knowledge of the U-2 operations and was an expert at tracking planes.

John E. Donovan, commanding officer at the Atsugi base, said Oswald was of "higher intelligence" than the average

Now—get this fine spray without aerosol propellants.

A fine anti-perspirant spray—get it from Mennen's squeeze bottle, instead. No aerosol propellants—just proven anti-wetness protection in about the most economical form you can buy. And the whole family can use it!

Mennen Anti-Perspirant Spray lasts 3 times longer than aerosols.

enlisted man and stood seventh in his class of thirty radar operators.

"Lee Harvey Oswald was dependable and very calm under periods of pressure," Donovan said.

While in the Marines, Oswald also worked with the CIA operations to overthrow forces in Indonesia and the Philippines, and was also with the American undercover operations in Taiwan.

Oswald began painting a communist image when he defected to Russia in October 1959. The defection, according to a former CIA agent, was arranged by the United States Government.

"I know for a fact that Lee Harvey Oswald worked for the CIA, the FBI and the military intelligence," the agent added, "and that he did not defect to Russia on his own."

Yuri Nosenko, a Russian KGB agent who found political asylum in the United States in February 1964, assured the CIA that Oswald was not a Soviet agent. Nosenko added that the Russians believed that Oswald was an American spy.

Harry Dean said if Soviet officials planned to use Oswald as an undercover agent in the United States that they would not have put their stamp of approval on Oswald's request to marry a Russian woman.

"Russian authorities would not have allowed Lee Harvey Oswald to marry Marina and take her to the United States if they were going to use him as a secret agent," Dean said.

"With a Russian wife, the U.S. authorities would have kept a close eye on Oswald's movements and the Soviet officials were well aware of this," Dean pointed out.

On the other hand, Dean said Oswald's marriage to a Russian woman was an asset to his American undercover operations. "The marriage helped strengthen Oswald's so-called communist image . . . and he was able to more efficiently penetrate the various communist organizations and gather information about them," Dean added.

When Lee Harvey Oswald returned to the United States from Russia, he borrowed $435.71 from the U.S. Embassy to pay the fare for himself, Marina and the couple's four-month-old daughter. The money was later repaid.

"Oswald would not have paid back the money to the U.S. Government if he had been a real defector. In fact, he would have laughed at having beat the United States out of some money.

"The truth of the matter is that the debt was probably paid by the agencies," Dean surmised.

The former agent said Oswald, unlike the other defectors, returned to the United States without difficulty.

After Oswald's return from Russia, he worked hand-in-glove with a FBI-CIA agent who operated a "private detective" agency in New Orleans.

His office was actually a front for CIA operations. He worked out of a building with the same address printed on literature Lee Harvey Oswald distributed on behalf of the Fair Play For Cuba Committee.

Oswald was arrested in New Orleans on August 9, 1963, and charged with disturbing the peace by creating a scene. He became involved in a scuffle while passing out Fair Play For Cuba pamphlets.

Immediately after being jailed, Oswald asked to talk to an FBI agent. The next day, an agent talked with Oswald.

"This is unusual," Dean said. "Unless the person in custody reveals that he has important information regarding a crime that has been or is about to be committed, or the FBI is familiar with the subject who has been arrested, the agency is not going to send an agent to talk to an individual who has been thrown into jail for simply disturbing the peace.

"The FBI knew that Oswald was an agent and that he wanted to talk to another operative so he could turn over the information he had garnered. This is why an agent was sent to New Orleans jail," Dean added.

Robert Oswald said his brother had been fascinated with the daring exploits of the spy world ever since he was a small boy.

"When Lee was only a youngster his favorite television show was 'I Led Three Lives,' and he never missed a single episode," Robert said.

The television drama was based on the life story of Herbert Philbrick, the FBI informant who posed as a communist spy.

Lee Harvey Oswald, like Philbrick, played the communist role to perfection. Twice, while living in New Orleans, he nailed pro-Castro signs on a neighbor's house. On another occasion, he severely criticized a New Orleans singer for singing "Castro, that bastro." Also, while Oswald was in New Orleans, he formed a chapter of the Fair Play For Cuba Committee.

While working at a Dallas print developing firm, Oswald shocked his fellow workers by bringing out a communist newspaper during a lunch break.

In spite of Lee Harvey Oswald's so-called communist patriotism, his name was not included in the FBI's Security Index, a file which is maintained on persons who are considered to be a threat to the national security.

None of the seventeen FBI agents, supervisors and senior officials who were questioned by a recent Senate Committee about Oswald not being listed in the Security Index, thought that Lee Harvey Oswald should have been in the file.

"Mr. Oswald's name wasn't in the Security Index because the FBI officials knew that he was working to preserve security, not hinder it," Dean proclaimed.

The State Department in Washington also honored a passport request for Oswald to return to Russia to visit. On June 25, 1963, the State Department received an application from Oswald for a passport renewal for travel to Europe, Poland and Russia as a photographer.

Although Oswald had a reputation as a Marxist, a Russian sympathizer and an anti-American, the State Department approved the passport.

"This is proof beyond a doubt that Lee Harvey Oswald was a secret agent working for the United States. If he had not been acting in this capacity, the Federal Government would not have authorized him to go back to Russia," Dean contended.

Dean added that both the FBI and the CIA have fueled suspicion of a JFK conspiracy by not identifying Oswald as an agent.

"I realize that it would be embarrassing for the agencies to admit that Oswald was working for them, but it is time that the truth was told regardless of the consequence. They know that Lee Harvey Oswald did not kill John Kennedy," Dean said.

The former agent said that President Lyndon Johnson put the muzzle on the agencies shortly after the assassination.

"Mr. Johnson wanted the crime solved quickly and he ordered the FBI and the CIA to go along with the charges that Oswald was the lone assassin," Dean said.

The ex-agent noted that in recent weeks several documents relating to Oswald's activities have mysteriously disappeared from the FBI files. He added that this was further proof that Oswald was a Federal employee.

Dean also stated that there was very little doubt that Oswald did not know Jack Ruby. And the former agent's belief has been well substantiated by other persons.

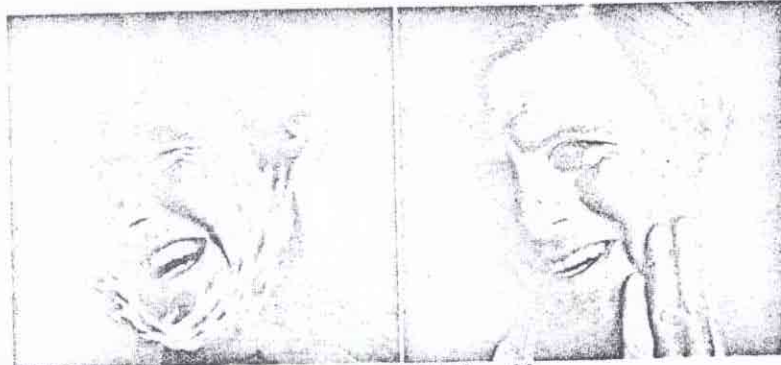

A Dallas County Deputy Constable told authorities that he saw a receipt from a motel near New Orleans dated several weeks before the assassination with Oswald and Ruby's name on it. The receipt, according to Preston, showed several telephone calls were made to numbers in Mexico City.

Only recently, Walter Weston, a former employee at Ruby's Carousel Club in Dallas, said he saw Oswald and Ruby together on two different occasions.

A former CIA agent, who is now a California attorney, said Ruby was part of the assassination team.

"Oswald and Ruby were together on various occasions because Oswald was keeping close tabs on Ruby's movements. Oswald knew that Ruby was a threat to the president.

"The plotters of the Kennedy murder had planned for Oswald to be killed during his capture. When this failed, the chief

Before.

'Afta'.

Does shaving burn your face? And your after-shave make it feel worse? You need Mennen Afta® after-shave and skin conditioner. Afta soothes and protects against the dry, chafing effects that sun, wind and shaving have on your face.

Don't get burned.
Get Afta.

conspirators ordered Ruby to kill him. They knew that Oswald was an agent and they also knew that he had the names of those involved in the conspiracy," the ex-agent said.

Dean; "With a Russian wife, the U.S. authorities would have kept a close eye on Oswald's movements."

The two former agents, however, do agree on one thing. Both believe that a congressman and an army general ramrodded the sniper slaying of Kennedy. Dean, unlike the other agent, has come out of hiding to speak his mind.

"The congressman and the general are very powerful individuals. And up until now they have been successful in pulling off the crime of the century by framing Lee Harvey Oswald," Dean said.

He added that the congressman raised the necessary money needed to finance the assassination and that the general recruited the gunmen.

"According to the evidence that I have, and the evidence which has been produced by other investigators, I know the names of two triggermen who were in Dallas on November 22, 1963.

"One of the triggermen was a Cuban exile, who was found murdered in Miami, Florida, on February 22, 1968; and the other is a Latin American, who now lives in California," Dean said.

The former agent said he had heard the Latin American state that John Kennedy should have been assassinated after the Bay of Pigs "because Kennedy was holding the freedom of Cuba in his hands."

Dean added that the congressman and the general used Cubans and Cuban sympathizers to carry out the presidential murder because many of them were angry with John Kennedy over the failure of the Bay of Pigs invasion.

"The exiles from Cuba hated Fidel Castro and they blamed Kennedy for not taking an active part in the Bay of Pigs invasion which was organized to oust Castro from power. Therefore, it was no trouble whatsoever to recruit them for the Kennedy kill plan," Dean said.

Dean said that he is ready to go to court and prove his charges against the congressman and the army general. He added that he has all the evidence against the two men welded together.

"It would appear that if I am questioned under oath, under the penalty of perjury, that this would be proof enough that I am telling the truth.

"I have said it in the past and I say it again. I pray that I am given the opportunity to present my case in a court of law. If and when this happens . . . the John Kennedy murder will no longer be a mystery," Harry Dean promised. ■