Dear Phil,

If you want to catch me on TV again and again on the King case, Unsolved Mysteries this coming Wednesday, 3/31.

It happens that I did have a copy of that to me remarkable story for the C A. Wayne phoned me for the first time in years that night and got and sent me a copy. I also want three for three professor friends. Thanks to you I need only two and unless I can find a machine that copies a full page of a half page two of them will be handling awkward copies.

It was good to walk to Wayne again! Also to hear from you again!

That Sunday morning I heard a decent report on the story on the CBS radio news, ~~Wmwx~~ at 1 a.m. When I tuned it in again at 4:00 a.m., no mention. No followup since of which I know, no mention in WxPost.

Surprises me to begin with that the C A got interested in such a story and invested so much in it and wound up without the Memphis content on King at the time the assassination. And withhold other Memphis content of which I know

As soon as I heard that newscast I wrote the C A asking for a copy of the story and about getting copies of their records for archival purposes or citation of the FOIA request number to avoid searching costs. Perhaps I'll get an answer.

Has Memphis State or any other institution ^{an interest} in the subject, if you know? I ask because perhaps it and Hood might be interested in making a joint request and splitting the cost, with each have ⁱⁿ a file.

I know there was an oral history project but it was skimpy on the assassination, at least what I saw was.

When that project started the Army had other non-military interests. ~~like strike~~ like strikebreaking.

And it had a training manual that described democracy as "mobocracy."

Many thanks, Phil, and if you can think of one at the CA who might provide copies for archival purposes I'd like to know.

Best,

Hal
