

Where you refer to your specific entries, I can't begin to get them out now for specific reference and response, in time and in terms of making room on my desk so cluttered with what I'm working on on so many things. But I'm making an extra carbon to file clipped-out pieces with each entry and, hopefully, at that time, whenever it can be, I'll address them again, and to you.

101.2, CEB26 and Hoover's mention of Kaack but not Quigley: two agents interviewed LHO, not one, and the second, even his existence, was carefully hidden. There is not any denial of Bringuier's testimony on this. Could this be a significance? Remember O in NO: No Kaack affidavit?

Pages from the Marines book: A denied having.

Check on duplication. And I didn't realize I had not given you the appendix to PM. I thought I had.

Neutron activation: I go further than you. It is disproof. If they are not identical, it is that simple; they are not identical. Those things you point out (and they are correct, like the non-scientific language) merely make it more credible that there is no other interpretation and there is no innocence.

CEB26 again: I've just checked. I do not have it, or if I have I can't find it. I thought I had it before I did O in NO, which is before I started carding these things. But I have no card on it, no ref under Kaack and no copy in the file on him. I'd appreciate a copy.

Neutron: also missing are curbstone and clothing and windshield, etc.

Folder 2: Howard is following with Bell labs.

Penal: I do have 15 14 pp CD 1349, but I do not recall deB suggesting he was a red.

What this says of deB! Sorry about the refs. I just thumbed through that file and kept it as you sent it, same files, same order, etc. I'll be going through it again with care. If you have made any notes on what could relate to O and as Agent that is what I'd like to go over first, rather than starting at the beginning, my original plan. Oh, I see what I missed, that de B doubted he was red, which has to be the case.

Sorry I didn't include refs. I just skimmed and made a few handwritten notes on my lap as I did. Desk was then too full to spread out. I am into more than you know, too much at one time, and have inordinate pressures of all sorts, which also tends to dim recollection and block obvious things from my mind.

I did find space in one file drawer for those four folders and I'll use the same drawer for the things from your 4/23 order until I go over them and send you notes, etc. This way everything not integrated into my files will be at one point. As I integrate I will card, and that I can't begin to think of now. Thus, whatever I referred to as this new B. stuff will have to wait until I can go over it again.
