Dear Rod,

Sorry you were able to get on an early plane.

Not only would we have liked it if you could have stayed longer, you could have taken the enclosed with you.

These are the Olson papers as I got them from the family lawyer.

After I saw them I decided to call Donald to see if it is worth sending them. He said to so here they are.

No rush on returning them and copy all you want. Easier than taking notes, too.

I had bought a second set for Mike. I'll be sending them when I send this. I've already written him asking him to write a commentary/analysis and to fill in any blanks he call. I've asked that he do it in duplicate so I can forward any comments of my own with them to you.

If you go ahead with this and would like me to talk to Russet with you I'll be glad to. I do think that if you go ahead you'll be back anyway and that going to him in person will be better than phone. I have an idea that you may be able to do with him what I did years ago on an anti-Nazi expose. It involves making a not-unethical offer of anonymity under conditions that may help persuade him to accept.

Think about this. It may be better to do this first before making any calls where any one can be an alert if not screeching sirens.

I have a few ideas I'll follow on trying to get the rest of the Inspector General's report.

If you will be coming back any time soon don't mail this. It can wait until then. Besides, it would be better if I read it with care when it would stick in the head better in the event any of it could be of help.

Hope your presence and our flowers perked Brenda up.

If you can include it in your expense account the call to Mike was $2.26, Post Morten $10.00 and I won't mind if you add the postage on this.

Best,
