

Dear Jon,

11/12/78

Today's WxPost Mag story on Bankey threatening to sue the Enquirer is amusing. I think there is not even an outside chance that he'll be crazy enough to do more than make noises. But if I'm wrong and if he does, I think I can be of some help - on him and on the committee's identical practises through those not on its staff or directly on its payroll. - It also uses informers who practise deceit.

In fact I have copies of its transcripts of the tapes of phone conversations of one of its informants. These include conversations with an element of the major media the committee was intending to mislead, did mislead and did set up for some real embarrassment.

This is to say that they can tape conversations with a reporter but a reporter can't tape his conversations with them. ~~they can't tape his~~

You have not responded to my inquiry about my Ford tapes, or his testimony before this committee.

Don't you also have some of my pictures? Those they were so hot to get you came up for them and had them hand-delivered.

Sincerely,

Harold Weisberg
