Dear Harold:

I hope that you are feeling better and that you just went through a rough patch. I pray for you every night, but I'm not very religious so I don't know how much that counts!

All I can say about Marge Schott, if she likes Hitler so much, why doesn't she move back to Germany and leave the rest of us the hell alone. I lost it with her when she fired Tony Perez. Perez coached that team all the while Pete Rose was gambling. She owed it to Perez to let him finish out that season. At least the Orioles have Johnson!

I enclose some stuff of mild interest. The wreck is a race we were going to but sold the tickets. We do have tickets to the Indy 500. I always think of James Tague this time of year. If the FBI went through my house, they can keep whatever they find. Half of my life is searching for lost stuff.

As far as Groden's books, I do know the text is bullshit, but I do find some of the pictures interesting. I have his first picture book, but not the second. I will get it, I have a couple of questions about them.

I do not know when I may get up there. My wish to get up there in April did not work out, but maybe soon. Betsy wants to come up too, but I may have to solo. It seems like my schedule is run by other people.

I meant to cut out an article in last weeks paper that discussed a support group by people who have been visited by aliens. I am not kidding.

Speaking of aliens, I saw Jim Marrs on Sightings, a show on the paranormal on Fox. The subject was the CIA and its mindreading experiments. The man interviewed entered the CIA program from the military, they supposedly showed him how to see the past and the future, this bothered him and he was drummed out of the military because he developed mental problems. Marrs angle was the the CIA had taught these men to see the past and future, and then abandoned them to some sort of psychic hell. The typical Marrs bullshit. If I may use the word. Marrs claims the CIA was successful in psychic seeing etc. Like they would tell him!

Anyway, I don't know if this letter helps you in your work, but it may at least be entertaining. I really hope you and Lil are doing better. I guess when we are young, we take our health for granted. My grandmother is 93, and my 74 year old dad is ~~XXXXX~~ still active. If he can make that 90 foot climb to the top of the steps in Indy, we pass the stress test!

I'll write later when I have something to say. Take care.

Love,

Bill
