

Dear Bill,

7/18/96

It happens that McKnight was here and he brought the mail in. He guessed what was in the express mail package and wants to borrow it. He ~~can't find~~ can't find the disk I gave him. When he does he'll get it printed out. The foreword is nice and stays in and we both appreciate the letters, as I'm sure Glòria and Marv have and will tell us when we hear from them.

Their younger daughter, Elaine, is getting close to finished the book she is retyping. She does not know I've another one waiting for her!!!!

I'll be getting to Forbes on Lucas but when I saw it I wondered if it mentioned Howard. From whom we've not heard in years. We regarded him as a son, treated him that way, and he summered with us when he was in high school and a little less when in college and law school. I remember he told me his law school prof asked him how he learned what he knew about evidence, referring to what he picked up from a nonlawyer, me. He runs several departments at Lucas films now, up from general counsel.

Your ref to meteors: when I was a boy in Philadelphia they were fairly common. We used to call them "falling stars."

If Dave finds out you are printing Waketh he may ask you for it. He also seems not to know what he did with the diskette I gave him.

A letter from Ginocchio today says he is halfway through Hosty's Pudding and finds it excellent. He likes the opportunities I found in his book and what I did with them.

Which in varying degrees is what I've done with all the bad books I could:

As little by little I hope they'll get retyped and be available on diskettes for some of you.

Again thanks, many thanks, and best to you all,

David
