Someone has been using my typewriter and not resetting the margin!

5 Trillion dollars. that is about the national debt. And according to Nightline, that is about how much money that we have spent on nuclear weapons development since Hiroshima.

The newly released video showing some of our atomic tests are truly amazing. In one of them, the troops are in trenches, about 2 miles from the test site. After the initial explosion, while the mushroom cloud is still rising, the troops are ordered to stand up. The force of the blast still hits them, and god knows how much radiation they have been exposed to.

It looked to me that the idea was to train troops to march on the enemy at Ground Zero, and not to be afraid of the radiation. Like when you would use a tactical weapon on the battlefield. In another case, the plane was ordered to fly right through the rising mushroom cloud. Bet those boys had some radiation exposure.

In viewing the films, it is clear that the military was preparing the troops to use nuclear weapons in a battlefield scenario. So, your thought that the military desired to use nuclear weapons seems to be correct. They did not plan to keep them on the shelf.

We printed out the LaFontaine book. Put it into a 3 ring binder. Looks good. Also, Janice looked on American On Line, and got 3 pages on Gen. Butler. Will send next week.

I include an article on James Earl Ray and Dr. Pepper, his semi brilliant attorney..

I feel good today, for about the first time in a month. Betsy got the same thing, since she had a flu shot, we know it is a different strain. With Janice having kids in school, Betsy working at a prison and a college, and the riffraff I rub shoulders at the courthouse (and their clients!), we get exposed to everything. Just like when I went to UK, where we got germs from all over the state.

One of the interesting things was watching old military footage of them de radiating the planes. They just washed them down to get the dust off. No protective suits, masks, nothing. The military had a pretty good idea how much radiation that they were exposing people to, they just did not give a crap.

So, it is obvious that the military not only intended to train troops to use A bombs, but actually intended to put them in the arsenal. The Hydrogen bombs were a little different story, as they were so powerful.

In our air show before the Derby festivities, we shall have the B-2 bomber, and the F117 Stealth fighter. I guess we should be thankful that they are being used in air shows instead of in a war. Awfully expensive sideshow.

Business has been good, if I can catch up. What I really need to do is drive to Florida to break in the new van. Sounds good to me!

Thanks again for the LaFontaine book.

One of my goals for 1997 is to make a couple speeches on the JFK case. I think I will approach some of the smaller liberal arts colleges in the area. My plan would be to show a few minutes of Reasonable Doubt, post some of the important documents on boards around the room, make some available, and post some of the important pictures, like the Altgen's picture of Oswald.

By the way, did you ever meet or correspond with James Altgens?

The 4-4-67 FBI memo is the one where Marvin Watson asks the FBI to look into the CIA for LBJ. Did you get this through Freedom of Info?

Hope you and Lil have a nice week. It is 12 degrees here. Stay warm!

Peace
