

Dear Bill,

5/26/91

From your 4/22, the enclosures with which are interesting, you still have not understood what I've been writing and asking about.

Jarico's work is good. When we got it and her bill for the time we sent her a check promptly. Also asked her to return all ~~the~~ chapters of the Waketh epiloggs because she is too busy for me to hope to go over it. At the rate on that one chapter it would take her close to a full year. I also sent you a copy of that letter to her. Got a word from her since. And the chapter you sent me is one I sent you earlier on the chance the content might be of interest to you. Please ask her to return all of it immediately. It could have been done by now when I had someone local and a friend who was unemployed.

No word from Ryan. Or Carrow. I wrote him as soon as someone else sent me what he wrote, based on the profoundest of ignorance and certain knowledge of what success requires/.

Orioles game daytime and on TV so I want to take it in.

We spend about an hour a day medicating me, perhaps more. Two of the medications for the high blood pressure seem to cause intense itching. I was tearing my back up so much in my sleep I've been wearing a pair of leather, fleece-lined Andean mittens to deter that! When I sleep-in mittens!

If and when the last of the JEL records are disclosed do not expect any smoking gun in them.

It is more than I'd putting up with me, the way you put it. Without her what I've done would not have been possible.

On the Oliver Stone interest in a King movie, it was true, whether or not it still is, and he and Bill Pepper could not agree. Seems like the Kings are in Pepper's pocket. Dexter King did not respond to my letter.

Although neither said not hinted at anything like it, the Pepper conclusion makes no sense at all. There is no chance of solving the crime and any latching of Ray's rights to that has to fail. I know nothing about this new test but the unrefuted record of the evidentiary hearing is that with the old tests a competent testing would make a definitive answer possible. Certain. If he knew about it, it did not interest Pepper who began with the expectation he would solve the crime.

When he was here he had no interest in the Se transcripts and when I got a student to continue his searching and copying, he excluded them then.

Best,

H. Wolff
