Dear FHarold:

I used to think Jews that refused to own German cars were extreme. Now that some of the facts of the WWII slave labor have come out, I think they were correct. But Posner has a different opinion.

For the record, I buy American cars and everything else I can get my hands on.

I enclose some articles you may find interesting. Seems the King family is going to give Mr. Jowers a run for his money.

I have written the Filson Club to attempt to get a chance to give a lecture. It has almost become a joke, trying to give a lecture. Berea College never acknowledged my offer. I'll get one yet!

Filson Club is the local history society that I belong to.

We are doing fine.

I really don't have much to say, but thought I would write you a letter. If I hear one more thing about Monica Lewinsky's underwear, I think I will scream. Jesus Christ, isn't there some other news?

My attitude is this: Whenever one of the know it all bastards decides to run for Senate, they should have to go down to the Ohio river and drink a big glass of water. If they live, which is not certain, maybe we could get something done for water pollution.

Did you see the NY Times review of Dark Alliance?

I'll write soon. Take care.

Bill
