Oilmen Gave $5 Million to ixon Effort

By Austin Scott Washington Post Staff Writer

Officials and principal stockholders of 178 oil and gas companies contributed almost $5 million of the $60.2 million raised to re-elect Richard M. Nixon in 1972, according to a study released yesterday by Rep. Les Aspin (D-Wis.).

Aspin said that 413 directors, senior officials and stockholders from the companies contributed $4,981,840. He compiled his 58-page report from contributor lists of Common Cause and the General Accounting Office.

The figure does not include $268,700 given to the Finance Committee to Re-Elect the President by former New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and his brothers, who own stock in Exxon.

Atop Aspin's list of contributions by companies was the Gulf Oil Co., whose officers and directors gave a total of $1,176,500. Gulf, along with Phillips and Ashland, have each admitted illegally donating $100,000 in corporate funds to the campaign. Those contributions were later returned.

Other companies where individual gifts added up to enough to place them in Aspin's top 11:

Amerada Hess Corp., Getty Oil Co., $261,956; $179,292; Standard Oil of California, $166,000; Sun Oil Co., $157,798; Pan Ocean Oil Corp., $137,035; Phillips Petroleum Co., $137,000; Exxon, $127,747; Williams Companies, $117,596; Shaheen Natural Resources, $104,000; and Ashland Oil, Inc., $103,500.

Not all major companies gave a lot. Aspin's compilation listed only $1,000 from the American Oil Co. - given by James R. Stockton - and a total of $4,500 from three officers of Shell, one of the industry's multi-national giants.

In some cases one or two incontributions dividual 1 amounted to most of the total.

See CAMPAIGN, A7, Col. 4

nen Gave

CAMPAIGN, From A1

Richard Scaife, heir to the Gulf-Mellon fortune, gave $1,003,000 of Gulf's total, with the rest split among five individuals, which had already been reported.

Scaife is heir to the Mellon industrial and banking fortune, which in addition to Gulf Oil includes the Aluminum Co. of America and the Mellon National Bank.

There were some large gifts Aspin did not list in the top 11 named citizens lobby, lists because, an aide said, the reasons for giving might easily have had to do with interests other than oil, although such ports his claim that "President reasons were not specified.

The Rockefeller brothers' gift was in that category, the aide said, as well as $109,000 listed for John Loeb, a director of Texas Pacific Oil, a subsidiary of Seagrams, Ltd., and a partner in the investment firm of Loeb Rhoades.

Another gift in that category, the aide said, was $106,-500 listed for Arthur E. Johnson, former chairman of the Midwest Oil Corp.

Most of the individual contributions had been made public earlier. William Broydrick, the aide to Aspin, said the totals for contributions by company were arrived at by matching donations to the Nixon committee with the names on the American Petroleum Institute's list of oil company executives and directors.

Broydrick said two contribution lists were used. One, published by the General Accounting Office, lists contributions made after April 7, 1972, when a new campaign disclosure law took effect.

The other, disclosed only after a successful court suit by Common Cause, the selfcontributions made before that date.

Aspin said the study sup-Nixon's hands are tied, preventing him from dealing efergy crisis.

"The big oil companies have campaign. Mr. Nixon in a double hammer them."

has introduced legislation that re-election campaign. would clamp an excess-profits tax on the oil companies, and has called for forcing them to increase their production, Aspin's list of contributors company stockholders.

Such a study "will undoubted disclose some pretty company stockholders. United States.

sons the individuals named defense contracts.

to the President's re-election Standard of California execu-

Seven of the oil companies, lock," he said. "After their however, showed up on an cluded $160,000 from Leon massive contributions there is earlier Aspin study saying Hess, board chairman. little he can do to control the directors and officials of the 100 top defense contrac-study over to the Senate Wisconsin Democrat tors gave $5.4 million to the eliminating oil import taxes, from Standard Oil of Califor- hefty gifts to Mr. Nixon," he and eliminating foreign tax nia, for example, includes $89,credits, which he said encour- 500 from David Packard, a diages them to explore for oil rector of the company as well small gifts, or none at all, overseas instead of in the as a former deputy secretary from some major companies of defense in the Nixon admin- "raises questions about pos-Aspin's compilation did not istration, and founder of an sible additional secret and speculate on any other rea electronics firm that has many maybe even corporate gifts," fectively with the current en-imight have had for donating Aspin listed the total from tives at $166,000.

The Amerada Hess total in-Asplin said he is turning his Watergate committee, in hopes it will make a more exhaustive Some of the individuals study of gifts by principal oil said.

The fact that he found Aspin said.