

It would appear that the hot line is not hot enough. So, I'm the neighbor of the hotter hot's U.S. station. So is Camp David. This station is identified in the paper as part of Ft. Detrick. Actually, of the complex, which also includes the little-known East Coast Relay Station...May be some doing at Camp David. While I was walking up the mountain (in that general direction about 9:15, there were at least five helicopters, invisible because the trees were so dense only an occasional blotch of sunlight worked through. About 9:45, as I got home, I saw five more, all the right kind of them many kinds. Of course, it is always possible that the military is undergoing a major relocation, further away from The Watergate.
