Appointing "eon Jaworski as prosecutor on November 1 was an act of political genius. ^He wa the ideal man for Nixon's purposes and the timing was perfect - everybody yearned for an out to the impossible situation created by what became known as "The Saturday Might Massacre", the firing of Cox and Rickelshaus and the Richardson resignation.

Jaworski, maximu who carries the Connally brand we and comes proudly from that Texas corral, is the one nationally-prominent lawyer Nixon could safely promise a free hand. ^He was, in fact, the one lawyer of national reputation who could be depended upon not to use a free hand. ^He had a record ignored by the press but not by Nixon and Rancher Connally.

"t was helpful, of course, that Jaworski had been president of the national bar, especially because the current har president was a leader in criticizing Nixon and the hundreds of wrong-doing lawyers in the case.

Jaworski should not have considered the appointment. He had a complication in his life that disqualified him. Like Gray and Cox, "it never crossed! his mind that he had this complication. he had already ignored it once with great success.

His CIA past was this particular complication.

Jaowrski was a trustee of the Texas-based Anderson fund. It was a CIA conduit for fanencing student groups in the early 60s, a major sendal of the time. How was this CIA type going to be inpartial when he had to d cide whether to prosecute the CIA or any of its people, from the Director down? Could he charge them without in effect indicting himself for his own activities that violated the prohibition against any domestic activity by the CIA?

Jaworski was the one prominent cheif investigator as chief presecutor who, from his record, could be depended upon not to find fleas on a mangy dog. He established this record as spedial counsel to the Texas Court of Inquiry in the ascassination of President Kennedy. There also he faced the same conflicting interests because of this minor CIA connection of his one. He faced it squarely by ignoring it and asking the federals to investigate themselves. Cou,d Nixon want more?

Here is how it happened, as Connaly, who was then governor of Texas, knew. Afte Oswald was first identified as a "red," which he wasn't, the next big sensation about him was the allegation that he had had a CIA connection. Until evidence of this reached Dallas District Attorney Henry Wade, the federals ignored it. Once Wade knew, they didngt dare ignore it. They knew what was not generally known, that Wade believed the assassination was a conspiracy.

Wag oner Carr, who was Wonnally's attorney "eneral, admitted to ne what 4 knew without the admission, that he had reported this to Washington rather than doing what his special counsel Jaworski should have done without consulting anyone, investigate it. Panic seized the members of the Warren Commission and their chief counsel, J. Lee Rankin. They had the Texans fly in secret to Washington where theyheld a fake secret "hearing" at which there was no court reporter to make a transcript and thus there is no record of the evidence the Texans had. Two of those present told me they were certain a court reporter was there to take a verbatim record down. There was not and none was ever made.

Were this not enough, the Texans never could get any information from Washington. credentials While they made no effort to investigate, the most persuasive Jaworski could have for Nixon, they did give what little they got to Washington. But ten weeks after the assassination, ac ording to those of the records that did not suffer a mysterious disappearance in federal files, the Texans were still protesting to Washington that to date" all you have image given us is thanks."

This is the kind of vigorous prosecutor Jaworski is. Testimonial to it is the report of that Texas inquiry. It is a more 22 small pages of headline type, heavily spaced and narrow in width-less than three and a half inches of type to the page!

in the second second

It is a nothingness that does not mention CIA pr Oswald's reported connection with it.

Nixon was safe in Jaworski's hands, as the CIA and any connectoon with the JFL assassination also was. There was no risk in giving Jaworski a free hand. If he
