He sees a rise in the cost of living that will make savings worthless. And governments, here and abroad, in his view, are powerless to change what he sees as inevitable.

"All this talk of government reforms is hot air," he says. "There is not one person living who can resist the financial strangling of

Pick talked about the recent upheaval in the world currency markets at his New York headquarters at Pick Publishing Corp. He issues the World Currency Report and has published 12 books on the subject.

For Americans, who are legally prohibited from buying gold today, Pick says: "Buy yourself gold coins. They are better than any bank account. Gold is in the area of $120 an ounce now, and we cannot prevent it from going up."

HW:

I think this guy is technically right, but the runaway inflation he describes CAN be prevented if enough people with the necessary resources WANT to do it. Certainly Nixon has done nothing to stop it, either here or abroad, and probably won't. It did not begin with him, but he's responsible for not trying, really.
