WHITE HOUSE FUND FACING ABOLITION

House Panel Votes to End the Discretionary Money for 'Special Projects'

By CHRISTOPHER LYDON Special to The New York Times

WASHINGTON, July 25-The House Appropriations Committee wiped out today the White House's traditional $1.5-million "special projects" fund, from which the Nixon Administration paid, among other things, the $130-a-day consulting fee of E. Howard Hunt Jr., the convicted Watergate conspirator.

The action signaled the possible end of the annual "blank checks" granted to Presidents since 1956 without conditions and usually without subsequent

The committee's move reflected Capital Hill's resentment over the Watergate affair and, in miniature form, the Congressional drive for a strongetr voice in budgeting.

Preliminary reports to the Appropriations Committee from the General Accounting Office indicated that "special projects" money was used in 1971 and 1972 to pay travel bills and parts of salaries for a number of regular White House staff members, and consulting fees for many others, including Hunt and Tom Charles Huston, who planned a partly illegal crackdown on radicals in 1970.

The committee cited, as its formal reason for abolishing the fund, the refusal of White House budget experts to account for their spending. Frederic V. Malek, deputy director of the Office of Management and Budget, declined at hearings last May to say whether the White House "plumbers" investigating the leak of the Pentagon papers in 1971 had been paid from "special projects" funds. Mr. Malek also re- they ought to ask for it." fused to give an accounting of In addition, Mr. Steed said, Hunt's salary.

Continued on Page 29, Column 7

House Committee Votes to End Special Fund for White House

Tom Steed, an Oklahoma parliamentarian make it doubt-Democrat and chairman of the full that appropriations to imappropriations subcommittee plement Executive orders — that had reviewed the White that is, discretionary Presiden-House staff budget in detail, tial funds, without a legislated commented this afternoon, "I purpose — are legal at all. just wanted Mr. Malek to know "There's no law to justify that when he says I can't know that appropriation," Mr. Steed what he did with the money, said. "In that sense, it would would have objected to the years anyway. way it was used.

Continued From Page 1, Col. 5 their staff with it. If they wanted to expand the staff,

recent rulings of the House

there ain't going to be no more have been vulnerable to a point of order from the floor. There's Even if the money had not no legal way you can ap-gone to members of the Water-propriate that money; we've gate crew, Mr. Steed said, he been violating the law all these

The White House had no "Instead of it being for real comment on the House commit-special projects," he said, "too tee's action.