

Freep 12/1/72 Nixon/Rebozo/Mafia: reminds me of a second intriguing possibility, the Commissar of Gambling under Castro is now alleged to have been Frank Fiorini Sturgis.
In the draft of O in NO I have a story from Pearson/Anderson, I think from Parade and I think known to Hal of from him (I can't now find this story) about how the there-unnamed commissar knocked the hoods down at the casinos and details of his high life. If this were really Fiorini, then there is another WG link. ^{Belle's} ~~Barker's~~ wife's maiden name, according to Sundance, which went no further is Barker. Ain't too many Cubans so named.
