Sorry I did not make clear enough my purpose in sending you part of what I would use in the epilogue and sorrier that your heart gave you some kind of warning. Your 3/20 does not give the diagnosis. I hope it is but the normal reaction to tensions. Wharever it is I urge you to heed what can be a warning and not to absuse or overuse your heart. Whyn I spent more than three weeks T popkins, sent there from the local hapital which did not epacet me to survive, I was taught to walk more slowly the the present snails pace. I hope it is nothing serious.

Perhaps the use I made of the memo Wrone returned to me is clearer in the hastily-written epilogue. I had a copy made y esterday and had I not been mocked out it would have made yesterday's mail. I'll add this and get it in today's. In a few minutes I'll be leaving on my early morning walking, after which I read the papers when I'm home and then work again. Yesterday's mail held much that requires response. But I hope to get rid of Donahue/Menninger before Friday, when a professor I've helped in the past, not on the assassinations, will be here for help on another book.

Stress can be serious. Some years ago a small doze of valium was prescribed for me, I mean at a small level, and it was helpful. I used to break the prescribed 5 mg pills in half. And it does not interfere with any functioning. Absent making a habit of it at higher dosage, I suppose.

No. 1, take care of yourself.

And many thanks,

Too much rush. Sorry! Akimmed what you sent before retiring last night and did not recall your appreciate efforts with agents. The guest this weekend has an agent and I'll make that inquiry and I have had in mind for some time one in particular, despite the odds against it, Esther Newberry of International Creative Management as soon as I get an address. McK has been too busy to get it from the Hood library. She was with Teddy Kennedy years ago but may have a conflict in having repped Hersh. I can use the approach to her as a means of informing her for the future of what exists.

Take care!
