

Dear Clay,

6/20/98

The misaddressed chapters mailed priority made best time getting here, but I am not recommending misaddressing because it might hit a postal clerk not as cooperative and one who does not know or know of me. We have not had the Route 8 address for more than 20 years and I wonder where you got it. When PM was done in 1975 the address was Route 12 and before 8 it was 7. Then they gave us a street address which is on my stamps and labels. Anyway, the package was here yesterday and you have my apologies for not thinking that with Dave not having sent you the disk or a printout you had no idea what the next page is. It is 155.

If anything like this happens again is it helpful to have even temporary page numbers. They make reference possible.

Brief because we've just returned from Johns Hopkins with the good report that there is no sign of cancer on the ear from which it was removed. But in other ways not all that good. I'm tired and weaker. Second day of that. But although yesterday got that way suddenly and for no apparent reason and I was that way getting up this morning. I had no real trouble in my supermarket walking at 4 a.m. and no trouble, although I went very slowly, pushing Lil around the Hopkins outpatient building beginning about 8 a.m. in a wheel chair.

When you phoned Sunday Dave had just left. He returned to Wisconsin yesterday. He was interviewed on the Zapruder film by People magazine but they wanted him to put a dollar price on its value and he would not do that. Mostly they want things their way, so maybe they won't use him. We'll see.

Thanks and best,

Harold
