It is customary on occasions like this for the speaker to begin with a compliment to his host. I have what I intend as a compliment: This is the first speech I have ever prepared in advance.

I have made hundredsxofxxom quite a few in the past year. Not a single one was prepared. This is not because I am lazy. It is simply that I have been too busy writing other things and, as you better than most know, it comes out better and fresher, more spontaneous, if it is unrehearsed. I do not know how happy either of us will be with this, my first experience at reading a speech, but please believe that my direct many in the same sure of the importance I attach to your association and what it symbolizes. Otherwise, I'd not be doing it and I'd not be here.

Some of you may regard this as less than a compliment, others as the lest complimentary thing I have to say, tonight. But hear me out, whether you like what I have to say or not; and, if you do not or, you disagree, let us have it out.

What has been most lacking since the first bullet splat into the body of John F.

Kennedy on November 22, 1963, and he was being thereafter consigned to history with the dugious epitaph of a fake inquest is a genuine dialogue. Perhaps, belatedly, it can begin tonight.

This lack, this absence of any genuine discussion in the press, does not what originate with you and those you symbolize. It is but part of the total abdication leadership of the intellectual community on this subject. A proper foundation was laid for it.

Our society adjusted remarkably well to the shock of the murder of the authority.

Bresident. The transfer of power was smooth and steady. Government continued without the function of the assassination. The function of the head of government.

In function of the head of government.

Me survived rather well, and perhaps it is a credit to all involved, from the new President down, that this hap ened, that we came out of the assassination with no threat to the government, no interference with its authority and the rendering of the essential service. Nor was there any change in fundamental policies. Superficially, every thing was smooth, went well.

Zhatzourzzortetyzhas motzyet det Gur society did begin to crumble that awful day, not when the bullets found their mark but when the accused assassin was seized by public authority. Lee Harvey Oswald was to me an unapetizing man, yet alone among those criticial of what our government has done - have insisted from my first written word on the subject that firom the Commission's own best evidence he could have killed no one- not the President, and not Officer J.D. Tippit. I defend him not from affection, I the tend to the for I have no liking for him. I defend him to defend our law, to support our society. Parenthetically, I hope you will understand that my criticism of what government did and hes done is no more subversive that the overturning of an erroneous court decision. We do not expect infallability of public servents. Man is human. He errs. Jesus did trust Judas. We assume man will make mistakes. We take for granted our courts WIII do wrong, and our entire concept and organization of justice is based on this assumption. The mechanism for the correction of expectable error is built in. At the root, the strength of our society is its dedication to right and to rights. So it is really a dedication to the stæengthening out our society to criticize it, to insist that it function as it should, to demand the righting of wrong.

Because he was systematically, publicly glagrantly-denied of all of his rights from the moment of his apprehension, with the arrest of Lee Harvey Uswald our society did begin to fall apart. With the denial to him of his rights, all of us, individually, lost some our ours. Collectively, when he was killed while in the hands of public authority and only because public authority made it possible, we lost additional rights that we have not yet recovered. We have the right to inists upon the proper functioning of society - to demand that the law be upheld and funforced - that it work. When Oswald was murdered - and I reemphasize that he was and could have been only because public authority made it possible - we were each and every one of us denied the protection of our laws and their protection were undermined. he steered.

Should you desire, I will later seeify for you. For brevity I hope you wial take my word for it that this man was denied every one of the protections we have always assumed each of us has. He was denied the right to a trial by unbiesed jury by the organized corruption of the public mind by a ceaseless y stream of false and highly prejudicial misinformation amounting to a propaganda campaign against him. Is there a possible juror who did not have his mind captured from the first by that outpouring of peaks calculated falsehood about this men? He was denied a lawywer of his choice, although the have been assured the opposite. Even when the delegation from the Dallas chapter of the American Tivul. Liberties Union was in the building and Oswald begged for them, this delegation was thrice assured by responsible officials what was totally false - that Oswald bed insisted he wanted no lawyer. He was framed by the most obvious techniques, including dishonest "lineups" that made his difficiti identification automatic. He was persistently question over his record objection; that he did not want to speak without his lawyer. This is one of the few things on which the skimpy records of his interrogetions agree, for there is no real record. There was no stanographer, now taxe recording. Can you imagine there would be none had he confessed: There is not today a single word of a single handwritten note of a single one of the dozen or so officials who then questioned Oswald. A Precident was murdered, a single man was accused of the crime, and there is not now and not for history any record of what he was asked or what he said!

That he was denied all his rights when the police allowed him to be killed, is in my concept no more important than the fact that thus symbolized the loss of all their rights by the 200,000,000 other Americans not then murdered. The rights of each of us are important, but no less so than the rights of all, the rights of society. So, when all of public authority combined to take amay the rights of Lee Harvey Oswald - each and every one of them - each of us lost his rights and all of us were denied the functioning of our law.

This happened - this could have happened only because of the addication of those whose repon responsibility it is to keep such things from happening. As I see it, three major elements of organized society are involved, two immediately.

First, the lawyers. With them, the press. Then, and we can not insist immediately, the so-called intellectuals, which in actuality means what has come to be called "the eastern intellectual community".

It is from these three groups that we expect and should be able to expect the defense of society and the defense of the individual.

We did not get it. Not then, not since. Not when Oswald was killed, not when the Commission began to function, not with the isuance of its Report that pretends to be other than it is, and certainly not with the appearance of books analyzing and criticizing the entire mess, especially what the federal government but he was the first.

That there was no Zola among the intellects is no surprise to one who has observed their mutual navel-contemplations, their answer to the continuing crises of the last half of the 20th century.

That the legal profession was silent - worse - that its mean organization he willingly belowd stir the official whitewash - is a shock and it is a surprise, stulting in a surprise, stulting in a surprise of the climate of fear and of the satisfactions of well-paid completency. It is particularly surprising to me for there has no in recent years three been an increasing number of lawyers, both young and just starting and experienced and well situated, who have willingly and without pay undertaken the defenses of the Mirendas and the Gideons. Let a thug, a murderer or a whore need a lawyer and he is there. This is as it should be, and it is a glory to our country. But let society need defense counsel, and there is none save the unknown. To my knowledge, of all the countless thousands of lawyers in the entire land, there was but one who reised his voice, a single man who said this is wrong and I oppose it, and he came late, after Oswald was murdered, after the Commission had been established and was functioning. I think that in the history of this period Mark Lane will be remembered, as I believe he should be, because he did try and and and undertake a defense of Oswald before the Commission.

As a writer it is more distressing to me that those I symbolize feiled.

The working daily press produced no Lincoln Steffens, ne

proposity

Paul Y. Anderson. Those you symbolize produced no Zenger.

At this point, I went to be obvious, for I intend no personal insult. From

At this point, I went to be obvious, for I intend no personal insult. From how on when I say "you" I mean, in its broadest sense, the ownership and management of the press and motion without.

"You" failed more than any others, more completely, more hurtfully, more shamefully. I speak with some bitterness of this in the epilggue to my second book, with Although I feel this deeply, I do not asseil you with it. Instead I refer you to it, haping some of you will take the time to consider my disappointments and disgust. I spring from a culture in which man was not born to freedom, so points perhaps freedom means more to me and I expect more of and am less tolerant winter.

It is the traditional, the honorable, and the quintessential responsibility of the press in our society to police all the rest of it, to keep the politicians the honest, to expose the crooks, and above all, to inform the electorate. A society such as our can work only when citiziens are fully and accurately informed. They have but on a source of the information they require for them to discharge their responsibilities, and that is you. If you do not seek out the truth for them and do not make it available to them, they cannot be the informed and concerned electorate from whom all power, theoretically, at least, flows.

You did not seek the truth about the assassination. You did not seek the truth about its investigation. You were without significant criticism when became it was clear that too much was lacking. And since you have applied youselves lustily to those of us who have tried to bring out the truth as we see it.

The Max in toundame

Those simple challenges, those opportunities for good news stories that are the delight of every editor and the joy of every reporter that existed in such abundance. You not find Particularly in this true once the Commission started functioning. There is not one of you so naive you did not know you were being had when systematically every major element of the press was corrupted by "scoops", carefully place leaks that made segmetional headlines all, by remarkable concidence, poisoning the public mind and conditioning the press; all calculated to show that Oswald was a terrible fellow, a lone, alienated, unassisted Communist essessin, all false. One of the major stories of the period of the Cammission was its brezen corruption of the press, its hardly disguised pre-conditioning of the public mind to accept the conclusions with which it begen its investigation, to make credible the pre-determined conclusions that the so-called "investigation" was only intended to validate. You can search those 15 large printed volumes of testimony without finding any evidence that the government every looked for any the pression of assessing, you will not find any serious effort to make earn if the evidence was tainted. You will find perjury internal and ignored.

On what other story could this have hapmened. Let a dog-catcher swindle a nickle and you are on his back. Let the federal government openly indoctrinate you and you are complacent - on this subject alone.

But this is the most important story of the decede, if not our lifetimes.

This is the one that greaxing grews the guts of society. You are without pain.

It does not hurt as your vitals are consumed.

You also rape easily. Youndid not feel it. Or should I say, you pretend you didn't. You really did, and you enjoyed it, for you were paid with sensation, with headlines, with exciting copy.

There was no enterprize in journalism when the President was murdered.

Let me give you a simple and quite comprehensible exemple from WHITEWACH II: THE

FEL- SECRET SERVICE COVERUP. Alert media representatives the day of the assassination

onted that in the very first picture to hit the wires, a picture of the first floor of the exas School Book Depository Building, Lee Harvey uswald seemed to be observing the assassination he was then said to have been committing from six floors above. James W. Altgens, an experienced AP photographer, snapped that picture about half-way through the few seconds the assassination required. Behind the President, clearly seen grasping at his bullet-ridded throat, there is this men with a striking resemblance to uswald. Here is the Matterns further templite for inhere fus if he immission from only that mapping for the manner.

M. W. Interpretable the government let it be known that this was not uswald but another manner.

Billy Nolan Lovelady. Indeed, Lovelady so declared, then and later to the Commission.

immediately available, had the Monot been the antirely dubious genavior of the police and all of public authority, had there not been the obvious unanswered questions, this was just too good, too important a story to forget. The government leaked the intelligence that it was not sweld and was Lovelady and you all accepted it. You tout.

Now there was a very simple means of determining whether or not it was (SHTWAGAIH) ovelady. The man in that picture is wearing an unusual shirt. How long would tupley

you see a cub reporter on my other ctory who missed this obvious clue:

You do not and did not need the official evidence I used. The truth was easily determined. A reporter knocks on "ovelady's do r and asks to see the shirt. If Lovelady cannot produce the shirt, could be have been waering it:

The President was known murdered November 22, 1963, No reporter asked Louldy and in Norman to in the following prisone, of the to produce the shirt he was that day mearing. Not until February 29, more than three months and God alone knows how many interriews later did the FBI On that day Lovelady appeared at the FBI's Dall s office where he was photographed in the short he was wearing. The FBI dutifully filed a report with Washington headquarters and sent along an 8x10 glossy print of three different pictures taken of Lovelady in the shirt he was wearing when the President was murdered.

They were questioned repetitiously, but the Secret Service, the FBI and the Commission. Not one was asked to describe the shirt and the may have seen either Oswald or Lovelady. Povelady appeared before the Commission after endless interregation and reinterrogation - on April 7, 1964. This was 38 days after he was photographed by the FBI in the shirt he wore to the assassination. Joseph Ball, one of California's most prominent lawyers, a man whose firm is so eminent it can entice a defeated governor to join it, asked the questions for the Commission.

intelligent wub reporter. He did not asks toveledy to produce the shirt he was were ring when he was photographed while the crime of the century was being committed. He did not ask Lovelady to describe the shirt.

committed. He did not and Lovelady to describe the shirt.

In 24 lay ratumes

the Commission's printed evidence is estimated to total about 10,000,000 words. There are 11 volumes of what for lack of a more adequate and in the language has come to be called "evidence". These volumes are almost a thousand pages each.

In them you will find, carefully reproduced by facsimile and usually incomprehensible the most awful collection of trash, trivia and junk init our national history. Road maps, directories of various sorts, page after page of reproduction of pocket notebooks, three different contradictory versions of the same police radio logical about which there was no question raised, and page after page of pictures of hard faced and soft bedien Ruby strippers.

What you will not find is the FBI's picture of Billy Nolan Lovelady in the shirt he said he was wearing while he watched the President's murder, the shirt that can prove he is the man in the picture. For this and the accompanying FBW Report there is no space in a very large books, 10,000,000 words of "evidence".

Both the report and the picture were in the Commission's possession. That is where I got them.

In fact, there are two FBI reports, each in a different file. There is the Friginal report - I have it with me and you can examine it if you so desireand a summary memorandum report. Both use the same language. Lovelady told the FBI and the FBI told the Commission he was wearing a"red and white striped shirt"

Here is is (show). Pland here is boundly, on Most (Ahm) then The FBI's plategraphically disciplated version (Ahm).

Terhaps you may doubt that Oswald was on the first floor watching the assassination he is successed of having that tiny fraction of time said to have having committed it. from six storeys above. - believe he was on the first floor, and this is by no means all the evid nce suppressed or mispr misrepresented by the government. Thether you believe vswald is or is not in the Altgens picture, can you

Can you believe that the FBI and all those on the Commission who knew of this evidence should have been silent Can you conceive of a reason consistent with honesty and integrity of purpose the suppresses this evidence from the record? Can you find an honorable reason for it not to be in the 900 pages of the official Peport, that politicial placebo designed for pacification and placating, Not for a solution to the crime:

This is but one example. There are hundreds. I will discuss them with you as long as you want, all night if necessary, and I promise there are so many I meed not repeat myself.

So, in addressing myself to the integrity of government I am also addressing the integrity of the press, your integrity. There is another aspect of enother element of the press, There are book publishers. I approached more than editorial comment and with a surprising recurrence of the prediction that the book would be profitable, I could not get it published. Fortunately, I was able to publish it myself. I would not have been able to, for was without income and in debt, had there not been a management with sufficient dedication to the freedom of the press to pint the book on certain credit. The endorsement I give my printer is stronger, for he knew that his predicessor had agreed to print the book, had destroyed the plates after making them and without consultation with me, and had specified fear of the government was his reason.

without warrant, are justified in the controls what can be published as a book. I bedieve a different fear explains the disgraceful de arture from the noble tradition of the American newspapers and electronic media. Regardless of the result, the fact and the result are evidence: An American President can be killed and consigned to history with the dubious epiteph of a fake inquest, with precond-hand archive staffed part-time and in every way inadequate, and with questions within the capacity of man to answer that are not answered and in most cases not even asked.

I believe that when this can happen -and it has - no President is safe, other the institution of the presidency is not safe, and the basic institutions of our society are in jeopardy. I do not labor the point, but I ask you to think about it.

Having made these these serious charges against you, having accepted your hospitality and your challenge, I owed you more than pro forma pleasantries. To me, the subject of the Kennedy assassination is a cert touchstone issue. It is not alone truth and justice that we seek, important as they are; not alone the recapture of the national honor and the decent regard of mankind. The among ourselfes and throughout the world we have on this issue lost it. Nor is it along that a President has been murdered and we do not know who did it and why. Central in allof this is the integrity of government.

The official investigation of the assassination when was without integrity, in purpose or in performance. It was a whitewash. This is intolerable, particularly in a democractic society.

You made it possible.

Having said these things, I must now redefine "you", for in recent months some of you have begun to assume your responsibilities.

Not all of "you". There are still those who are little more than professional lickspittles, apologists for the government and its untenable record. Without Jundacetal to question you repeat the hardly-disguised semi-official propaganda for you by wire acroise. You are part of a campaign against Jim Garrison New Orleans District Attorney who seeks texts do what is important to all of us, to take a part of the story of the assassination before a judge and a jury. Is it that you cannot abide this, cannot allow an untainted judicial determination of fact:

How many of you killed the slanderous propagande against those of us who seek the truth as we see it, that cheap nostiness of calling us "scavengers"?

I am a presevered in the face of determined suppression?

I am a "scavenger" because I worked for four years without income or subsidy of any kind: Mark Lane is because, after a similar history on a much smaller scale, his book was fed back to the United States by a pritish publisher - isn't it shameful it had to be that way - and an american publisher treated it as any other book and made a financial success of it:

Those many who owe their fame and fin ncial success to the murder of the President, those multi-million-dollar beneficiaries of his assassination are not ladding furriting.

"scavengers". Not Scheesinger or Sorensen, or the schmalz-ladels Evelyn Lincoln, or the Nanny of the children. Not Congressman Ford, the very first to get into print with a private and highly commercial Warren Report of his own, one print the possible only because you and I paid him to be on the official investigation.

Not Congressman Ford who signed the Life story on the investigation.

Report. Not Louis Nizer, the eminent lawyer, who wrote a glowing endorsement in the guise of an introduction to a commercial printing of the Report at a time when he could not possibly know what he was writing for 100% of the source material was to have unavailable. Nizer is not a "scavenger". He addresses this epithet who did without pay what he was spid to do, compare the Report with its a leged backstopping. and that of the man was prid to do, compare the Report with its a leged backstopping. and that of the man was prid to do, compare the Report with its a leged backstopping. and that of the man was prid to do, compare the Report with its a leged backstopping. and that of the man was prid to do, compare the Report with its a leged backstopping.

the movie from it, and above all, not in the incredible introduction he wrote for who was naturally means after what is specified by that sycophancy by Charles Roserts, one of the two matters reporters most active in defaming those of us who what they are paid to do. By remarkable coincidence, if that is what it is, both are white House correspondents. Both refused to debate me on their work or mine, that of the commission, its Report, or any combination of their chosing. When I made it easy and offered to restrict the debate to their own writings, on which each man is certainly the world's pre-empent expert, each again defaulted. But they are not scavengers, nor is the Salinger who delcines to moderate such a debate while, as a writer and former editor, entirely unashemed as his self-proclaimed effort to keep other writers from being heard.

Least of all is William Manchester a scavenger. Given a license to print (NSTEP) money he wrought a national scandal, alone and unassisted though all the help in the world was available should he have desired it. If there is a Pulitzer Prize for inaccuracy, he'll have no real competition. The Merriman Smith, who won the Pulitzer Prize for his so-called "reporting of the assessination could win it while he is alone among the people of whom I know in not knowing where he was when he learned the President had been shot, ear get it, certainly "anchester has, he was when he learned the President had been shot, ear get it, certainly "anchester has, he was "Satural"
I agree With $665,000 "for openers" from Look alone, Wanchester is not

It would appear the passes has as you have redefined "scavenger", so in fairness to some of you must it redefine "you".

The press divides in two, printed and electronic.

The press divides in two press divides and electronic.

The press divides in two press divides and electronic.

The press divides in two press divides and electronic and elect

22, 1963 also knocked the torch out of the once upstretched hand. Not until a year ago was any effort made to raise it. Then it was radio, not the printed press, and soon TV supported the arm of radio. Today they are still alone, for the printed press has not yet faced its responsibilities and the shame of its own past. I am still so dirty a word to most papers they will not mention my name or that of my books. Or those of my competitors, unless bracketed with invective.

its responsibilities and begun to discharge them. Undreds of thousands of TV viewers have seen the Oswald-Loveland pictures I just showed you, but not a single ready in a link wanted from the TV newspepe of or respective reader Aundreds of thousands have seen the documents I print in facsimile in WHITEWACH AND WHITEWACH II. To the newspapers and magazines it is not "news" that I ransacked from the Commission's suppressed files the fact that before the assassination the FBI told people concerned about Oswald not to worry about him he was "all right". Not a single newspaper or regardine reprinted the suppressed FBI report that said, in effect, that the entire reconstruction of the crime by the FBI was fraudulent because the camera exposed film not at 18 frames per a 30 to report in the contraction of the second but at 24. And not one believed it important to tell its readers that the Secret Service investigation of the assassination proved to its satisfaction that the President was struck by two bullets and Governor Connally by a third that did a dama of the Labora.

not strike the President Nor do I recall a single printed publication recounting what I proved by their own documents, that the FBI made its official report on the murder of the President without mention of the wound in the front of his neck or of the bullet that missed the motorcade entirely.

Not a single one of the meny radio and TV stations over which I was able to talk report what my investigations proved made any effort to restrict what I could or could not say and each of these items that I think, especially when an American President is murd red is news, was broadcast, as were facsililes of the photographic and documentary proof.

If there are any of you who have not provided these things to your listeners and viewers and would like to, be my guest. You need not give me credit, either, cardinary of for what is important is not the sale of my books but the information that is essential for the citizenry to more what happened.

On only one of these must I raise a restriction that may not bind most of you. The Altgens picture that I earlier referred to is the property of Wide World-Alma fund particle.

AP. On that subject, may I add negative, for the moment, fundating egain leaving the fact of the assessination I cannot recall a single newspaper or magazine that to this day has reported what I exposed, that this picture was placed into evidence a helf-dozen times, each time improperly, and not a single time without being cut up. Each version of the same thing was cropped, edited. The version from page 113 of the Report - look at it - is less than half of the genuine picture.

Is this a way to investigate the assassination of a President: Or to report on it:

must pay a well-corned and more than deserved tribute to redio, which in meeting the comercial challenge of TV and the printed press has averyed what is often a 20th century version of the ancient and wonderful American institution of the twon meeting. At the printed press grew wealthy and completeent and as the flickering tube diverted with sports and situation comedies, the loud speaker and the earphone have become the one major, organized source of public discussion and information on the central issues of the day. The talk programs are wonderful, even those with the people-eater format I despise, especially on this subject.

They provide the author and others who want to be heard a chance to be heard.

They provide the audience a chance to decide for itself what it believes of issues of current importance.

of this format, in New York on May 17. When I volunteered the opinion that such programs has become vital in late-20th century America, he said I was trying to con him. I sincerely believe this is true, and I no less sincerely believe the be one of the most ill-mannered and prejudiced, ill-tempered and poorest informed of his new kind of "communicator".

went to single out for praise, here in whio, Phil Donahue of WHIO and Bob

I found to be

Locke of WFMT, both of whom are smong the most responsible moderators and enither of whom I have ever met! I have been on their programs, but never in their studios.

Radio is imaginative. It uses the telephone. It improvises, and this makes for excitement and interest. I will never forget my first appearance with Phil. He was still explaining the format of his show to me when he said "Oops! We've been on the Outside of whice the ears of your citizens, I must pay especial tribute to Wack McKinney, WCAU, Philadelphia; Jerry Williams and his nighttime only replacement at WBEM, Don Cannon; Harve Morgan, KCBS, San Fransisco; and Joe Dolan, KNEW, Oakland. While playing devil's advocate and prodding and probing, they managed to be fair. In saying this I must also say that they have not awlays agreed with me. Joe Dolan said some pretty unpleasant things May 9, after he signed me off and I could not respond, separated as we were by the width of the continent. I make a pair of this so you will understand to I am genuine in insisting that this new kind of press, this newest communication, the radio talk show, is already essential in our society. It is not important what the moderator thinks or says to provoke comment. Many could be better informed, better mennered and more responsible. It is not important that they agree with me, for many do not and make this clear.

That is important is that they provided the first opportunity to take the unar wered questions about the assassination and its investigation to the people when the printed press did not and would not. What is important is that radio gave a chance to those who developed the evidence disproving the official fiction to be heard, and the printed press did not.

What is so very important is that the electronic media did pick up the torch of freedom of the press so long associated with the printed word alone, and in so doing has, I believe, made possible the beginning of a new quest for truth end justice, the recapture of the national honor and with it the honor of the press.

hus far I have said little about the assassination. That is an enormous subject we cannot exhaust in endless days. What time we can devote to that I would prefer to let be under your control to the degree a long-winded man can, by answering you sake the questions.

May I suggest that if any of you wants to take issue with what I have just we begin with that: What has been urgently needed is a dialogue, on the subject and on with I regard as the failure of the press. If we do not spend the rest of the night on it, if you have any complaints or protests, let us begin with them.